WIFE COMPLAINED TO SOCIALIST PAPER

Told Editor Old Employee of Husband's Firm Would Suffer—He Objected to Complaints.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.
LONDON, Nov. 5.—Partial explanation of the tragic deaths of Roscoe Brunner, the great industrialist, and his wife, Ethel Brunner, author, is furnished by the Daily Herald.

The Brunners were found shot to death yesterday morning in a cottage belonging to their daughter, Princess Leichtenstein, adjoining their own huge estate at Roshampton. Brunner's body lay across that of his wife. A revolver was in his hand, and the police judged it obviously a case of murder and suicide.

Brunner was former chairman of the chemical firm of Brunner, Mond & Co., one of the greatest industrial institutions of the world.
Recently this company was amalgamated with the United Alkali Co., the Nobel Industries and the British dyestuffs.

It was noticed that when the announcement was announced that Brunner's name was not on the board of directors. It was announced that "Mr. Brunner, who has been long in ill health, will take a well deserved vacation."

Wife Complains to Editor.
The Daily Herald says that 24 hours before the shooting Mrs.
Brunner went to the Daily Herald office and demanded to see the editor. She harangued him on the iniquity of ousting her husband from the new chemical trust. She stressed the long service and devotion both she and her husband had given his firm and its employees and the sacrifices they had made for the business. She said she was a career and she of a literary future.

"I am not concerned," she declared, "only for my husband. I am not a Socialist, but I feel very deeply for one workers in Norwich.
We have done our best to look after them and kept in personal touch with them. Under the merger they are certain to suffer. Combines are soulless."

Mrs. Brunner was the daughter-in-law and sister-in-law of baronet and of high birth herself, and the telling of family troubles to a newspaper—especially to a Socialist paper—is regarded with horror by most aristocratic Englishmen. This version concluded that Mrs. Brunner and probably her husband was desperately hurt by being left out of the new company.

Quarrelled Over Business Deals.
The Daily Mail says Brunner and his wife had quarrelled over what Brunner regarded as his wife's extravagant dress and amusements and over the wife's resentment of his secrecy concerning his business affairs. She would never agree that his retirement was due to illness to his health, but insisted that it was brought about partly by an unfortunate business deal, involving payment by his firm of some $25-000,000, the ousting of which Brunner, as chairman of the firm, insisted on taking upon himself.

It is asserted that Mrs. Brunner several days ago visited certain business offices and expressed her feelings freely upon the firm's affairs, and her husband's retirement.
Brunner learned of this. Returning home Wednesday evening he complained angrily.

In London's financial district, it is said, Brunner was induced to give new directorate because of growing suspicion of his associates that ill health and business worries had undermined his mind.

Brunner was 65 years old. His wife was the mother of a series of books, among them "Celia and Her Friends," "Celia Once Again," and "Celia's Fantastic Voyage." The marriage of their daughter to Prince Leichtenstein was one of the brilliant social events of London
last year.

It is certain that Brunner was in no financial difficulties. He had just spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in renovating his Roshampton estate.

English Quits in Face of New Evidence

The investigation by the Post-Dispatch had not been undertaken.

Richardson assured Summers he would tell this as a witness before the Senate, adding that someone in the bank had erased the record of these payments from the book and concealed them from the House subcommittee that held a hearing at Centennial in 1925 to get this particular information.

That night, Summers, instead of returning direct to Washington, went by way of Detroit to tell Chairman Michener of the House Committee of Managers, that Judge English wanted to resign. Michener then was in a campaign for re-election and had Summers make an appointment with Kramer to meet them in Washington yesterday.

Conferees Go to President.

They met in Summers' office in the House Office Building, conferred and then went to the White House, where an appointment
having been made by Summers beforehand.

Michener and Summers first conferred with the President, who then called in Attorney-General Sargent.
Then Kramer was admitted, and the President, who understood from Michener and Summers that Judge English wished to resign, asked Kramer if he had the resignation.
Kramer had it and handed it to the President.

The President read it, then remarked that he at first had intended not to intervene by accepting it, because the case was before the House Managers and he preferred to let them take action,
but that the Attorney-General and he had fully agreed that it had best be accepted at once.

The President pressed a button.
A stenographer entered. The President dictated his reply of acceptance. It required only a few minutes. Turning to Kramer, the President remarked that if he would step outside the acceptance
would be written at once, signed and delivered to him there.

Kramer thanked the President,
remarking that he was glad for the opportunity to meet the President of the United States, adding,
"I have heard your voice many times over the radio." The President, in characteristic style, smiled,
a little, and bowed Kramer out.
That was all.

One might call it a touch of irony, the fact that it fell to Kramer
to hand in that resignation, for Kramer was the man who was indignant at the Senator. J. Hamilton Levie, who in 1918 for the job that English got with the aid of union labor indorsement in Southern Illinois and lost through official in-conduct.

But Kramer was not happy. "No one can ever know how deeply I regretted my duty today," he remarked upon leaving the White House. "I like Judge English and we would have gone on with the trial had he so elected. But he knew that he knew best what to do."

Kramer would have been the anpointment over English in 1918 and it not been that President Wilson had made it a rule not to appoint a man more than 40 years old to a Federal judgeship. Kramer had just passed this age.

Lewis Volunteered as Defender.
Lewis supported him to the end
and would not to the last, indorse English, who is said to have had the support of labor and William G. McAdoo, the Secretary of the Treasury. It will be recalled that Lewis, now in private life, came forward in defense of Judge English and was to have addressed
the Senate in his behalf.

The remainder of the lineup for the defense was Zumburn, as chief counsel to present the case of Judge English; William M. Caston of Danville, Ill., to cross-examine all Government witnesses against the Judge; and Kramer
and Bruce Campbell of East St.
Louis and Frank T. O'Hare of Paris, Ill., as general advisers.

But Zumburn is not to be found by newspaper men since Senator
Reed took after him for his Ku Klux Klan activities in the Indiana political scandal. This may be as an explanation for his sudden desertion of Judge English. His withdrawal from the case disrupted
the defense, according to the view of Judge English, who is said to have been induced to believe that Zumburn had great influence in the Senate.

It can be said for the other lawyers of the defense that the employment of Zumburn, who came into the case after it was half finished in the trial, was a tactical error and that they counseled against his klux magic and were for trying the case on its merits.

Lindley Now Senior Judge.
But Judge English overruled
them and by his resignation Judge Walter Lindley, who sits at Danville in the Eastern District of Illinois, becomes senior Judge, probably the youngest senior Judge in the country. He is 45 years old.

statute needed no special construction and that Judge English wrote
the letter as a hint to Judge Lindley that if Judge Lindley would appoint George W. English, Jr., to receiverships and as attorney in bankruptcy cases, he, Judge English, might confer similar favors upon Harold Lindley.

New Witness Statement.
A bit of new evidence that was shown to Judge English by his attorneys and which the Congressmen looked upon as particularly damaging was a statement by Fred Allen, president of the Union Service Co., of St. Louis, who had served as co-receiver with W. H.
Sawyer of East St. Louis, in the Allen, Granite & St. Louis Traction
Co. receivership case.

The record shows that after Judge English appointed them as receivers on petition of creditors and bondholders, he held up the appointment until they accepted C.
B. Thomas, his lifelong friend and Referee in Bankruptcy, as their attorney, although they protested
that they had attorneys and wanted to conserve the assets of the company. He fixed the salary of Thomas at $200 a month.

Allen's statement, a new development obtained by the Post-Dispatch, shows that Thomas, from the very first meeting with English, demanded that they increase his compensation. They refused, whereupon he opposed everything they sought to do in operating the receivership. Moreover, Judge English would not make the receivership permanent and Thomas threatened at one time to have Allen and Sawyer discharged and become receiver himself.

The situation was in this snarl
when a hearing was held at Cairo.
Judge English again refused to make the receivership permanent and after court told Allen to meet him in his room at the Hotel Hollisday. Allen that night went to English's room and found Judge English and Referee Thomas awaiting him.

Allen would have testified, had
the impeachment trial been held.
Judge English talked at great length about his position, then came to the point, stating that the receivers ought to get along with Thomas, who was a good churchman and in whom the court confidence, and that the receivers ought to take care of Thomas.

Allen took this to mean they ought to increase his compensation, and next day confided his conclusion to Sawyer. He and Sawyer then went to the bondholders, told them the situation and got authority to deal as they saw fit with Thomas.

$500 Raised to $850.
Thomas had mentioned to them
that $500 a month would be satisfying to him, but he said he would take $850. When it was presented to him for signatures they noticed that he had $850 a month. They protested, but Thomas thrust it in front of them and commanded, "sign it."
Observing that Thomas was firm,
and believing that Judge English would stand with him, they signed the order. After that the recepership was made permanent and thereafter Thomas was in complete accord with them on everything
they did or suggested.

Still another surprise for Judge
English was information that M.
E. Patterson of St. Louis, former vice president of the defunct Droeper National Bank of East St.
Louis, had been subpoenaed by the House Managers. Judge English
knew what Patterson would tell,
and he had the same ugly word for him that he applied to more than a score of after the State officials and others who testified against him in the subcommittee hearings.

In the first hearing Judge English testified he had had no connection with the Drovers' Bank, which was another depository for bankruptcy funds, except that he accepted liability on 10 shares of stock assigned to him without his knowledge by Thomas.

Judge Party to Promotion.
Patterson would have testified that Judge English, Thomas and he met at the St. Clair Country Club and promoted the stock of the bank, discussed its price and that Judge English and Thomas thereafter decided to take a one-third share in the bank and that Paris English, son of Judge English, was to become cashier. This was the same Paris English who was paid 2 per cent interest on the bankruptcy funds deposited in the Union Trust Co. of East St. Louis, which was added to his salary as a clerk in that institution.

Judge English also knew there were other witnesses who would testify he was profane in language
while on the bench, carried a pistol on the bench and that he, English, was practically all the gaps in the testimony had been filled.

The House Managers made no secret of the fact that they had no apprehension of the outcome and only waited the day of the Judge in court.

But, strangely enough, they were not elated when they met yesterday. They were men of serious mien and met in solemn conversation about the future procedure. All lawyers of repute felt that a solemn duty had been performed for the bar and for the people of the Eastern District of Illinois.

They do not have two of their number, Michener and Summers, apprise the Senate leaders of the resignation of Judge English and let the latter adjourn the special session of the Senate, which was called to try the case, until the first meeting in December.
This would give the managers an opportunity to report back to the House and get further instructions.
Kramer announced he would remain in Washington until the Sen-

SIX ARE MENTIONED TO SUCCEED ENGLISH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Washington already is speculating as to the successor of George W. English, whose resignation as Federal Judge of the Eastern Illinois District was accepted yesterday by President Coolidge.

Six prospective candidates have been mentioned. They are:
Frank Noleman of Centralia,
who is said to have the indorsement of leaders in the Southern Illinois Bar Association.

Representative E. E. Denison of Marion, serving in Congress for the Twenty-fifth Illinois District.

Theodore G. Ristey of Mount Carmel, solicitor for the Labor Department here.

Circuit Judge Walter Brewer
of Paris.

A. D. Rodenburg, Assistant Attorney-General of Illinois,
brother of former Congressman William Rodenburg of East St.
Louis.

John Smith, a law partner of Frank Noleman.

With the exceptions of Noleman and Ristey, the candidacy of these men has been more or less in the open. When impeachment of Judge English was being debated in the House, Representative Denison let it be known that he did not wish to have anything to do with the case, intimating that as a prospective candidate he might be charged with ulterior motives.

The recommendation of Senator Deneen (Rep.) of Illinois will have great weight in the final selection
by the President. At Senator Deneen's office, it was said that the Senator was in Chicago and had been expected to return to Washington next Monday or Tuesday.
Now that Judge English has resigned, it was not known when Deneen would return.

Reports are current here that considerable work has been done
for Ristey by the Labor Department. Those favorable to his candidacy have pointed out that his presence in Washington as a Federal office holder will give him a slight advantage. These persons put that in 1918, when there was a vacancy in this same district, Judge English, then in the Justice Division of the Treasury Department, was the one who finally got the judgeship.

EX-HEAD OF FIRM IS INDICTED UPON $100,000 CLAIM

True Bill Charges G. H.
Field, Ousted From Republic Finance Corporation, With Embezzlement.

An indictment charging embezzlement has been voted against George H. Field, former president of the Republic Finance Corporation, dealer in commercial paper,
at 1121 Arcade Building. A bench warrant for his arrest has been issued.

Details of the indictment were suppressed, but it is understood to involve a large sum. J. Ray Weinbrenner, attorney for the corporation, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the corporation had a claim for approximately $100,000 against Field.

Field was ousted as president by the directors last May 13, following testimony in a receivership suit that he had caused alteration of the firm's books to hide alleged usury in dealings with C. J. Gonterman, real estate operator. The directors announced at that time that he had been made to surrender $100,000 of stock.

Field had been authorized to sell
the corporation's stock to the public at 20 per cent commission. One charge against him, according to Weinbrenner, was that he collected this commission, although he sold his own stock instead of stock
from the corporation's treasury.

Another charge, Weinbrenner said, was that he charged Gonterman discounts as high as 40 per cent to finance Gonterman's subdivisions on the East Side, but only 10 per cent discount reached the corporation's treasury.

Field lives in University City in a home for which he paid about $20,000. He has another home and a model stock farm at Steeleville,

WAR INSURANCE CLAIM HEARD
Woman Testifies She Was Married

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Corinne Hanna, who seeks to obtain from the Federal Government $8000 remaining unpaid of Maj. Mark Hanna's war risk insurance, testified in today in an effort to establish the validity of her marriage to the army officer. She said she had been married to Richard J. O'Donnell of Kansas City, Mo., but had been divorced in 1917 before she was married to Maj. Hanna. She said she never had heard Maj. Hanna mention Halle, Schroeder or Texas, who testified that she had been married to Maj. Hanna and
not divorced from him until 1925.

Not knowing that he had been killed
in action the last day of the World War, Mrs. Hanna's payments were stopped after her marital status
had been questioned and charges

not divorced from him until 1925.

who were most outspoken in their criticism of the lynchings—Austin
H. Johnson, a defeated candidate for Sheriff, and James I. Quinby, an eccentric gentleman of middle-age—two prisoners who were in the jail at the time the Negroes were taken from the building and lynched.

The two prisoners were Mrs.
Lucy Money of Augusta, Ga., and Charles E. Lee of Savannah. The first, a girl of about 18, occupied a cell on the same floor as that of Bertha Lowman. She was believed to have been a witness in a liquor case, having been caught by Robinson's deputies walking away from an automobile
in which they found liquor.

The cell she occupied is a part of a separate tier from that for Negro prisoners. Through the apertures in the steel door shutting off that tier she could watch the steps down which Bertha Lowman must have been dragged by the lynch-
ers. The diminutive jailer, Rupert Taylor, said he believed the steel door over the apartment house which she says she looked, was not closed the night of the lynching.

Of what she says she saw, she threw in an affidavit before Mr.
Hanna as a Notary Public, her affirmation states:

"On the morning of Oct. 8 I was in my cell and was awakened by the doorbell ringing downstairs. I saw four cars outside on the bridge. The group of men stayed downstairs about 25 minutes to the best of my knowledge. The sound was laughing and talking.

"During the 25 minutes they had been in the jail, the two Negroes whose cells were on the lower floor and then five men came upstairs to Bertha Lowman. I was standing at the door. Jailer Taylor unlocked the cell door of Bertha Lowman. Sheriff Robinson looked her from her cell. He was accompanied by A. D. Sheppard, one of his deputies. J. Percy Hart, Constable to Gov. McLean of South Carolina, and Road Officer John Haley. Bertha began crying when she got to the top of the staircase
she heard her brothers screaming and she got louder. They told her to shut up. Sheriff Robinson told her to shut up."

"At this time Robinson was behind, Salley in the lead, Hart and Taylor also behind the woman. At this time pistol shots were fired from the jailer's kitchen, the shots fired in the jail that night at all."

HEARST SEEKS POWER PERMIT

Plans Project in Alaska for Paper and Pulp Mill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, filed an application today with the Federal Power Commission for a preliminary permit to construct a power project in Alaska for the manufacture of paper. The application said Hearst contemplated a project at Fort Snellingham, in the Tongass National Forest, and a complete paper and pulp mill.

Several applications for preliminary permits, with which the Hearst application is in conflict, are pending. A license issued to the Alaska Pulp & Paper Co. in August, 1924, covers a part of the same project. Complete plans must be submitted to the Commission before a license is issued.

Liquor Worth $6,000,000 Seized.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Six million dollars' worth of liquor was in possession of prohibition agents today in what is said to be the largest bonded warehouse in America. The warehouse, owned by the Keap Warehouse, Inc., was seized yesterday by men under Prohibition Administrator Chester P. Mills, who said he had information the liquor was not being handled in accordance with the law. About two weeks ago 23 barrels of medicinal whiskey were stolen from this warehouse by robbers who shot and wounded a policeman in making their escape. The warehouse contains 5000 barrels of whiskey. Mills said he expected to test and gauge all of the liquor.

Fire Brick Co. Stockholders Say He Failed to Repay All of $341,320 Loan.

"Illegal and wrongful" manipulation of the funds and stocks of the Evans & Howard Fire Brick Co., are charged to its late president, Cecil D. Gregg, in a suit for an accounting filed today against his $209,000 estate by two stockholders.

The stockholders charge that he withdrew $341,320 from the company's assets in three years and failed to repay all of it, and so wrongfully manipulated a stock deal that he appeared to repay some of the money taken in the withdrawal, but actually did not.

The plaintiffs in the section are Mrs. Virginia H. Lupton, holder of 348 shares, and her nephew, Dearborn Farrar, owner of 15 shares. They charge that Mr. Gregg, who died Oct. 26, 1925, "illegally and wrongfully withdrew $341,320 from the company treasury for his own uses in 1923, 1924 and 1925, and ask the accounting to determine what part of that amount he is owing the company. On the books, it is stated, he is credited with returning $323,448, which would leave a balance of $17,872 still due. But part of this payment, it is urged, consisted of the return by Gregg to the company of 270 shares of the company stock.

The return was made on a basis of a valuation of $200 a share, which the plaintiffs contend was excessive. Further, it is charged that he immediately resold the stock for $54,000 to three employees but kept control of it himself, so that the transaction was nothing but a technical repayment.

The employees, it is charged, were induced by their president to enter into a contract to buy the stock "to bolster his credit." The contract for the sale, it is argued, was illegal in that it imposed no obligation on the employees, giving them the securities for virtually nothing.

The executors of the estate, Clarence H. King and Asa R. Wallace, sons-in-law of Mr. Gregg, are named defendants in the suit, which was filed by W. G. Carpenter, Gregg, besides his fire brick interests, was also president of the C. D. Gregg Tea and Coffee Co., and a director of the St. Louis Times. His estate was left to his widow and his daughters, Mrs. King and Mrs. Wallace.

RECORD ERA OF PROSPERITY

FORECAST BY C. M. SCHWAB

There Never Has Been a Time When He Was So Optimistic of Future, Steel Magnate Says.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel Co., foresees the approach of the greatest era of prosperity ever enjoyed by American industry.

Speaking before the Bond Club of Philadelphia, Schwab said that America would have its ups and downs, as it had had in the past, but that in the long run the industries of the country would show a progressive trend. The resources of the country, he said, were superior to those of any other part of the world and were being employed in such a way as to make this nation the workshop of the world.

"There never has been a time," said the steel magnate, "when I felt so optimistic about our great industrial life."

GARAGE AND AUTO BURNED

Residence on Country Club Grounds Saved by Firemen.

The garage and automobile of E. A. O'Donnell, a cotton broker adjoining his new home on Ladue road, west of Price road and opposite the St. Louis Country Club grounds, were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin, starting at 7:30 o'clock last night.

Damage was about $5000. Clayton and University City fire departments went into this unincorporated territory, which has no fire plugs, and saved the house from burning by use of chemicals.

New Anti-Scarlet Fever Vaccine.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 5.—To fight scarlet fever and diphtheria, a new toxin is to be administered on a city-wide basis to children at free clinics in the public schools here today. Minneapolis in this manner will set an example for the entire country against the disease, according to Dr. Harrington, City Health Commissioner, who has been instrumental in arranging for the administration of the anti-scarlet fever vaccine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Five persons were killed and two seriously injured last night when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by an electric express of the Long Island Railroad. The dead are Eleanor Davoy, 16 years old, of Woodhaven, her brother, Arthur, 18; a sister, Doris, 6, and Mrs. Minnie Grove, 30, an aunt, and her son, James, 2.

Man, 62, Weds Woman, 23.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Martin Gottschalk, 62 years old, married Albertine Ernhofer, 23, yesterday. When asked to tell why he chose a young woman for his bride, Gottschalk said, "I just wanted someone to take care of me and I think a young woman can do it better than an old one."

WIFE DECLARES PROFESSOR

AT COLUMBIA U. WAS CRUEL

Mrs. Mary N. McKee Sues for Separation; They Were Married at Carthage, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Mary N. McKee was awarded $500 yesterday by Justice Mitchell with which to press her separation suit against Ralph H. McKee, professor of chemical engineering at Columbia University. She alleges cruelty and asks for the custody of their two children, Margaret, 13 years old, and William, 16.

The McKees were married in Carthage, Ill., June 28, 1902, and came to New York in 1918. She recites that McKee's income amounts to $20,000 a year.

Prof. McKee, in his answer denying cruelty, says he has been allowing Mrs. McKee $100 a month since their separation in January, 1925, and that she does not need any temporary alimony, as he has reason to believe she recently received $25,000 from her mother in Oklahoma.

At the End of the Rainbow

By Shirley Deane

They have talked of their policy of Service, Courtesy, Low Prices, of Style Leadership and of Confidence (isn't it wonderful to be able to say such things honestly?) and I heartily endorse every word of it. I know, because "I just work here." But they haven't said much about the Realization of this great dream—modest maybe.

There's one big event being prepared now that proves that it all hasn't been in vain, that, at last, their Ambitions, Ideals and Hopes have been realized. That is

Our 46th Anniversary Sale

Beginning Monday, November 8th

No pretense here, no misinterpretation, prices that couldn't possibly be lower for the quality—excuse me if I rave, but I have just come from the receiving rooms where they are unpacking the loveliest things and putting the most ridiculously low price tags on them. And the buyers have told me of weeks of excited preparations, of the most unusual concessions made by manufacturers.

So, you'd be excited, too, if you knew all about it—but then you will next week. Just see Sunday's papers!

GIRLS' HOME LEGACY IN VANDERBILT WILL

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The last of many gifts to the working girl from a woman who never had to work was disclosed in the Surrogate's Court with the filing of Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt's will. She bequeathed a trust fund of $300,000 to Anthony House, Inc., of Lexington avenue and Twenty-ninth street. Her maiden name was Louise Anthony. The will was filed yesterday.

Providing lodging for 100 working girls, the building was erected in 1913, with Mrs. Vanderbilt footing the bill of about $200,000. The executors will administer the new $300,000 fund at their own discretion. Debts of the home to Mrs. Vanderbilt's estate will be absorbed gradually by payment from the income.

Six other bequests of $10,000 each go to the following: New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital, Women's Hospital, Children's Aid Society, American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Stanton Street Helping Hand Association and the New York Women's League for Animals, Inc.

Other large bequests went to Frederick W. Vanderbilt, a sister, Mrs. William Post, who will get the income of a $200,000 trust fund, and two nieces, Mrs. Thomas Howard of New York and Mrs. James Van Alen of London.

Vanderbilt will get the home, Sonogree, at Bar Harbor, Me., and personal effects. Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Van Alen will receive most of the income from a residuary estate expected to be at least $500,000.

Numerous other bequests, from $50,000 to $10,000 each were made payable to relatives and employees. Executors are Frederick Vanderbilt and Harold S. Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was married in 1880. She died in Paris, Aug. 21, last.

BETHEL CHURCH TO HOLD ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Evangelical Congregation Was Organized 25 Years Ago, First Met in Y. M. C. A.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Bethel Evangelical Church will be celebrated Sunday with special morning and evening services at the church, Garrison and Greer avenues.

The congregation was founded in 1901 and the first service was held on Oct. 13 of that year at the Central Y. M. C. A. An organization was completed by Nov. 20 with 10 charter members and on the following Sunday the congregation chose its name. Its first place of worship was Garfield Hall, at Thirteenth and Wright streets.

The present site of the church was acquired in June, 1902. The congregation later moved to a hall near the site to await the completion of the present stone building, which was partly ready in 1905 and was completed and dedicated in 1908.

The first pastor, the Rev. Theophilus L. Mueller, resigned in 1917 and the present pastor, the Rev. Joaquin Paul Meyer, took his place in January, 1918.

For the morning services, at 10:30 Sunday, there will be a special musical program. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. H. Richard Niebuhr, Ph. D., president of Elmhurst College, Chicago. The evening services will also include an anniversary musical program. An address will be made by the Rev. Paul Stoerker, president of the Missouri Synod, and the sermon will be preached by Dr. Niebuhr.

PRESS OF PARIS COMFORTED BY WET VOTE IN AMERICA

Hopes for Day When French Wines May be Allowed to Pay War Debt.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Parisian press has reluctantly come to the conclusion that the outcome of the American elections cannot be interpreted as meaning any change of attitude so far as Europe is concerned.

The French apparently would like to see in the Democratic successes some softening of the attitude toward America's European debtors, but their newspapers are informing them that when it comes to discussing such matters with

HELD ON BIGAMY WARRANT

T. U. White Accused by Wife He Married in East St. Louis 18 Years Ago.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Thomas U. White, electrical engineer, was held by police today on a warrant charging bigamy, filed by Mrs. Mabel Evans White, who said he left her and three children two years ago and has remarried. They were married at East St. Louis 18 years ago, she said.

The complainant said she found him living at Genoa, Ill., a short distance from Chicago. She said he had not paid for years the separate allowance granted her, although there was no divorce.

Annapolis (Mo.) Lead Mines Re-open.

BETHLEHEM, Mo., Nov. 5.—The lead mines at Annapolis reopened this week. One hundred and twenty men have been employed. The lead mill that was destroyed in the tornado of 1925 has been rebuilt.

those who owe America money there is little difference between Democrats and Republicans.

To the French the most pleasing aspect of the American elections is the expressions of "wet" sentiment over "dry." The hope that eventually French wines may be imported into the United States is paramount.

The Municipal Lodging House for homeless men will be opened Nov. 15 in temporary quarters in the four-story brick building at 206-208 North Fourteenth street, purchased by the city in connection with the Municipal Plaza improvement.

NEAT COUP OF PROSECUTOR TO SAVE "PIG WOMAN" FROM CROSS-EXAMINATION FAILS

Little Senator Simpson Harries Dignified Defense Counsel In Hall-Mills Case Like
 a Terrier Worring a St. Bernard.

By DOROTHY DIX.

(Copyright, 1926.)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 5.—Just as dusk was beginning to fall and eerie shadows to creep through the courtroom, Senator Simpson, special prosecutor in the Hall-Mills murder trial, whose bag of tricks is never exhausted, and who manipulates his situations with the art of a Belasco, executed a dramatic coup.

He arose and solemnly announced that Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," had collapsed, was desperately sick in the hospital and likely at any moment to pass into a state of coma. Therefore, as she is the only person professing to have actual personal knowledge of the murder of the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, and as she asserts that she saw Mrs. Hall and her brothers, Willie and Henry, at the scene of the crime, and as her testimony is vital to the prosecution, he desired the court to transfer its sitting to the bedside of Mrs. Gibson, and there listen to her story. He felt that this could be done with perfect safety to the sick woman, provided the defense did not harrow and excite her with what he called an "inhuman cross-examination."

The Coup That Failed.

It was a lovely plan, if only it had worked. For he remembered that Mrs. Gibson has not only told about seeing the two Stevens men at the place of the tragedy, and of hearing a quarrel, and the shots that killed the preacher and his affinity, but creeping back at 2 o'clock in the morning to the place of the tragedy and seeing Mrs. Hall weeping over the dead body of her husband.

The only hope of salvation for the defense lies in breaking down Mrs. Gibson's story and this it can only do by cross-examination that would show no mercy; certainly not such a one as they could subject a sick woman to, who had a high fever and who was suffering from an acute attack of nerves.

Senator Simpson grew almost tearful insisting upon the importance of getting Mrs. Gibson's testimony. Gen. McCarter for the defense grew apoplectic explaining how he could not and would not harrow a sick woman with the questions he was bound to ask her in order not to jeopardize his clients' case. And the night came on, and the presence of the "pig woman" and her mule, Jenny, seemed to fill the room, until the two judges, like two modern Solomons, cleared the situation by getting into their automobiles and going to the hospital, where they themselves saw Mrs. Gibson. They decided she was in no fit state to testify at present.

Simpson Harries McCarter.

Mrs. Hall sat between her brothers, and back of them were their faithful and loyal cousins, Commander Carpenter and Mrs. Henry Carpenter and Mrs. Henry Stevens. They make a fine-looking family group, handsomely dressed, well groomed, dignified and composed. They listened to the sparring of the lawyers with alert interest, for Senator Simpson continually badgers dignified and stately Gen. McCarter, until he makes one think of a saucy little fox terrier teasing and snapping at a big St. Bernard.

Senator Simpson is the enfant terrible of the bar. He simply won't play the game according to the rules, whereas Gen. McCarter and Senator Case rage and roar. With an innocent face and a manner childlike and bland, Simpson leads his witnesses along the paths he wishes them to tread, and then when he has said and done the things he shouldn't do, he meekly apologizes and does it over again.

In a case as serious as this there are elements of comedy. One that won a smile of amusement from Mrs. Hall was when a fussy and nervous lady told of hearing shots the night of the murder, and that a year afterwards a man, passing the old Phillips house at which she had gone to live, had stopped and asked her for a direction, after which he casually remarked: "Didn't a tragedy occur around here some time ago?"

This apparently innocent question so alarmed the timid lady that she ran in the house and shut the door. Later on, when she saw a picture of Henry Stevens, she says she recognized him as her questioner. Evidently this story had been the life of the party at many a sewing society, and she imparted a romantic flavor to it by describing him "im-mac-u-late-ly dressed," this stranger was and how he simply staggered down the road, he was so overcome by emotion in passing near where the murder was committed.

Flirtatious Choristers.

It would take a Eugene O'Neill to write the story of the choir of St. John the Evangelist, so pure and holy and uplifting on the outside, with such surreptitious flirtations and love-making beneath singing hymns to God with lips that kissed on the sly.

But one had a glimpse of these banked fires of romance when Ralph Gorsline and Miss Catherine Rastall were put upon the stand, and reference was made to other choir singers who also had their own romantic adventures.

Heaven knows Gorsline is far enough away from the popular ideal of the sleek. He is a long, lanky, sallow and melancholy looking and should have been a safe bet as a married man. However, he was imperfectly domesticated, it seems, for on the night of Sept. 14 he and Miss Catherine Rastall drove together to lover's lane, and were there parked among the other peters when the fatal shots were fired.

So much Gorsline admitted. He and Miss Rastall both heard voices mumbling, apparently in altercation, and then the shots, but he absolutely denied that he got out of his car to investigate the shoot-

PROSECUTOR'S COUP FOR "PIG WOMAN" WITNESS FAILS

and denied positively seeing Harry Stevens and being told that "this affair was none of his business and get out of here," as the prosecution has asserted.

Nor could any other admission be wrung from Gorsline or Miss Kase, and their stories which had been counted upon to throw light on the subject, petered out into nothingness.

The Silent Witness

Then came the accuser that the Stevens family have to fear more than all the men and women who are to be brought up to confront them. It is a little bit of paste-board, a couple of inches long by an inch and a half wide, just a visiting card. This card they say was found in the grass at the feet of the Rev. Mr. Hall. For on this card is a finger-print and the State says the finger-print is that of Willie Stevens.

Strange and spooky was the story that Commissioner Faurot, the great finger-print expert, told the jury, of how in all the ever-changing human body the finger ends alone never change; of how no two are ever alike and of how the fluids of the body, exuding through the pores of the finger tips make an impression upon everything they touch, as if they set their seal upon it.

Stranger still, how the fear and anxiety of those committing a crime make this exudation from the finger tips so strong that the slightest touch of their clammy hands is almost indelible. Invisible these marks may be to the naked eye, but pour over them a little black powder and the tell-tale lines and ridges and whorls leap forth. No one can deny. Nor does it take an expert to recognize them. They are there for every eye to see.

So it may almost be said that the fate of the Stevens family hangs on this card. Where did it come from? Is it beyond all doubt the card that was found at the feet of Halle Where has it been during all these last four years? Who had access to it?

These are the questions over which the big, grim lawyers of the defense and keen, shrewd little lawyer for the prosecution will fight a battle royal that will be worth seeing and hearing.

AIRSHIP CAR DESIGNED FOR ARMY AND NAVY DIRIGIBLES

Device Detachable From Gas Bag and Can Be Used as a Motor Boat.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., Nov. 5.—An all-metal airship car, designed for army and navy training dirigibles, under construction by the Goodyear-Zeppelin works here, is so designed that it will be detachable from the bag of a dirigible and can be used as a motor boat.

The cabin-boat will be operated like a motorboat except that aviation propellers above the water will give it motoring power. The car is especially designed for coastal use. In time of war it could be used readily as a surface craft and within a few minutes time attached again to a dirigible bag for air service. If the dirigible became disabled at sea, the car would act as a boat using the dirigible bag as a sail. The car is being constructed of duralumin throughout.

KIT CARSON WILL IN MUSEUM

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 5.—The last will and testament of Kit Carson, one of the West's famous plainsmen and Indian scouts, now reposes in the State Historical Museum here.

The document was transferred from the files of the Pueblo County courthouse to the Colorado Historical Society. The will was made at Fort Lyon, Colo., May 15, 1868, 13 days before Carson died at Taos, N. M. The entire estate, valued at $13,000 was left to the support and education of the surviving children. It included two ox wagons, seven yoke of work oxen, 112 head of livestock, two pieces of property at Taos and a promissory note for $3000.

RIP FAILS TO HALT INTERVIEW

Newspaper Man Dons Overcoat and Keeps Engagement.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

VIENNA, Oct. 2.—Prague had one of its greatest laughs recently when a correspondent of a Chicago morning newspaper and President Masaryk met for an interview. The Chicagoan wanted an interview which would stand out as taken from the Czechoslovak president's everyday life, something characteristic of him. After long thought he struck upon a horseback ride through the park, for it is well known that the president, in spite of his advanced years, rarely misses his daily ride. The idea was accepted. For this very special occasion the Chicagoan had a tailor make a pair of riding breeches. "They would make even the president notice them," said the tailor, proud of his work.

The morning of the ride and the interview came. The Chicagoan appeared as was arranged, and was cordially greeted by President Masaryk. The horses were led up. President Masaryk swung himself into his saddle. The Chicagoan placed his foot in the stirrup and started to do likewise. But this is where the tailor failed him. He had either figured too close on cloth, or had used a poor grade of breeches ripped apart and the Chicagoan did not get into the saddle. But the president smiled his amiable smile, and the other laughed at himself, although he was confused and red. A long overcoat was brought, which the American slipped on, and the ride was had just the same.

Two Surrender in Land Fraud Case

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Two of eight officers of Laven & Co., indicted last week by a Federal grand jury on charges using the mails to defraud in the sale of Florida land "adjacent to Henry Ford's contemplated rubber farm," surrendered to Palmer E. Anderson, United States Marshal here, yesterday. They are Bernard Laven and Harry O. Ellis of Chicago. Laven gave bond of $2000 and Ellis $2500. Three officials of the company who live in St. Louis are expected to be extradited for trial here. It is alleged that the company had only an option on land near Citrus Center, Fla., which it sold to hundreds of persons in the Middle West.

CONGRESS' YOUNGEST

E. C. Ellis (Rep.)

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5.—George H. Combs Jr., Congressman-elect from the Fifth (Jackson County) District, will be the youngest member of the next Congress. Combs is 27 years old, two years over the constitutional age requirement. He was elected by almost 18,000 votes over Representative E. C. Ellis (Rep.), one of the biggest pluralities ever given here for Congress. Two years ago Combs was defeated for the place
by Ellis.

Senator Reed has predicted a brilliant political career for Combs.
The Congressman-elect is a lawyer. He served two years as a Deputy Prosecuting Attorney of Jackson County. Last spring he came into prominence as chief defense counsel for Mrs. Albernina Frank, convicted of plotting the death of her husband, E. L. Frank, in their home here.

Combs is the son of the Rev.
George Hamilton Combs, pastor of the Country Club Christian Church.
He is married and has one son.
Samuel J. Montgomery of Bar-lesville, Ok., was the "baby" of the

ITALIAN MISSION RECEIVES AN OVATION IN RUMANIA

Crowds Cheer Duke of Spoleto—No Political Question Is Said to Be Involved.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 5.—An Italian mission, headed by the Duke of Spoleto and Marshal Badoglio, arrived here today and was extended all the honors due emissaries of the Italian court.

King Ferdinand personally greeted the visitors at the railway station, and later the Italians, attended by all the members of the Government and high military authorities, were driven through the streets of the city, which were lined with cheering thousands, to the royal palace.

The newspapers print columns concerning the visit and deal at length with the friendship between Italy and Rumania. They insist, however, that the visit is one of courtesy and that no political or other questions are to be discussed.

When it was announced recently that the Duke of Spoleto and Marshal Badoglio were to visit Rumania, the newspapers in the Rumanian capital hinted that there was a possibility that a marriage between Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Ileana might be arranged. The Princess is at present with her mother, Queen Marie, in the United States. Marie, when informed of the report from Bucharest, said she knew of no plan for the marriage of Humbert and Ileana. Official denial was given by the Rumanian royal party
that the marriage would be arranged when the Italian delegation visited King Ferdinand's palace.

DEFENDS HUSBAND AT TRIAL

Wife of Poplar Bluff Slayer Says Man Shot Annoyed Her.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 5.—
On the stand for her husband, Mrs.
Louis Hayes testified in Circuit Court last night that Lester Mathis

had been unduly attentive to her on several occasions and at one time came to her home when her husband was away and at the point of a revolver ordered her to leave with him. She refused and later told her husband of the incident.

Mathis at the Hayes home Aug.
14, 1925, when it is alleged that Mathis went there to see Mrs.
Hayes. Hayes and Mathis were close friends until Mathis is said to have become infatuated with Mrs. Hayes, according to testimony presented by the defense. The State attempts to prove that Hayes shot and killed Mathis without just cause. "I kept the truth about Mathis coming to my house and trying to shower attentions on me from my husband as long as I could," said Mrs. Hayes on the stand.

The jury began deliberations today.

FULTON IRON WORKS

NEEDS MORE CAPITAL

Stockholders Nov. 15 to Vote on Proposed Increase in Common Stock.

Need for additional working capital to offset a "substantial loss" suffered this year has resulted in a call for a special meeting of stockholders of the Fulton Iron Works Co., Nov. 15, to vote on a proposed increase in the common capital stock.

Ten thousand shares of preferred stock and 40,000 shares of no par value common stock are now outstanding. The board of directors has decided that it is to the best interests of the company to increase the common stock from 40,000 shares to 80,000, and offer the increase to the stockholders at $10 a share upon certain conditions.

Notice of the decision has been mailed to stockholders by H. J. Steinbreder, president, who states that the common stock, after the increase, will have a book value of $25 a share.

Cause of Depression. "You are undoubtedly aware that the sugar industry has experienced a depression during the past two years and a marked depression during the early part of this year," President Steinbreder wrote to the stockholders.

"This condition has resulted in very little sugar machinery business during the first six months of 1926. However, your company obtained its full share of the available business. This lack of business, coupled with unusual expense incident to putting into the field certain new designs of mills, resulted in a substantial loss during the first six months of the year, and has made it necessary to increase the company's working capital. The sugar situation has improved somewhat and this has been reflected in an increased amount of business, which, in our opinion, will result in a satisfactory operation for the fourth quarter of the year."

Manufacture Diesel Engines. "Your company and its predecessor have been engaged in the manufacture of heavy machinery since 1852 and of sugar mill machinery since 1881, and is the acknowledged leader in the field; in addition to which the company has been building up a satisfactory business in the manufacture of Diesel engines. Your company has not merely kept pace with the development of the sugar industry, but has originated and led in the development of the major improvements in crushing and milling sugar cane. Its customers include the largest and most prosperous sugar companies and plantations in the world."

The new stock issue has been underwritten by Mark C. Steinberg & Co.

TWO PINTS OF BLOOD GIVEN BY SONS FAILS TO SAVE MAN

Carl Schriever, 79, Whose Legs Were Cut Off by Train, Dies of His Injury.

Two brothers, Patrolman Charles Schriever, 44 years old, and City Fireman George Schriever, 39, today gave a pint of blood each in a futile effort to save the life of their father, Carl Schriever, 79, of 4235 Clayton avenue, whose legs were cut off by a Wabash train at Boyle avenue Wednesday afternoon.

He died at City Hospital a few minutes after the transfusion. He had left his home to dump a basket of tin cans. It is believed he was cutting through a string of freight cars when the train backed up and he was thrown beneath the wheels.

HEAD OF CLEANING COMPANY SHOTS AND KILLS HIMSELF

Harry Cohen, 57, Ends Life With Revolver in Office at 5642 Page Boulevard.

Harry Cohen, 57 years old, president and manager of the Page House Cleaning and Dyeing Co., 5642 Page boulevard, killed himself with a revolver in his private office at 8:30 a. m. today.

Employees told police that Cohen came in a few minutes before he retired immediately to his office. They heard a shot and found him on the floor, dead with the revolver in his hand and a bullet wound in his head.

He had been in ill health for about two years and under a physician's treatment for a nervous disorder. He lived at 5650 Pershing avenue.

MRS. ANDREWS GOES TO WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, chief of the dry-furnace, said today that Mrs. Andrews, who recently entered business, is making such a success it almost tempted him to follow her example. "I'll admit we both were a little skeptical," he remarked, "but after looking over her results, I took off my hat. Yes, we both miss the break in home life, but she is enjoying the experiment."

Election by Fraternal Congress

Parker, St. Louis, Macabers, vice president; Kathryn Hales, St.

Louis, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, second vice president; Mrs. Lillian Cook, St. Louis, Women's Circle, corresponding secretary; and Harry J. Wannenberg, St. Louis, Catholic Knights of America, recording secretary and treasurer.

CONCEALED ASSETS TO SAVE THEM FOR CREDITORS

Trauss Brothers, Bankrupt Jewelers, Blame Their Friend and Debtor, Ufland, for Their Action.

BOTH HAD PERSONAL ACCOUNTS AT BANKS

Each Drew Out His Money Before the Failure but Can't Remember What They Did With It.

The Brothers Trauss, Jack and Sol, bankrupt jewelers, concealed assets of the firm. They admitted as much yesterday at a hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles, even though their memories were not so good on other matters.

But they denied emphatically that the concealment was to defraud creditors. No, the concealment was to save the funds for creditors by keeping it from the rapacious hands of one Jacob Ufland, their friend and debtor, now serving a term in Atlanta penitentiary for fraudulently concealing assets of the Milton Watch Co., of which he was president.

If the Trauss Jewelry Co. had cash on hand, Ufland would want some of it, so the Trauss brothers hit on the idea of putting the company's money in bank in personal accounts.

Ufland Very Inquisitive.

"Mr. Ufland was always coming up to see our books," Jack testified. "If he would see any balance he would not pay me what he owed me, and maybe he would want to borrow something."

Jack finally got tired of Ufland being a debtor and pressed him for payment, whereupon Ufland gave him a check of notes of the Milton Watch Co., which, when discounted at 14 per cent by a loan company here, netted $4452. Jack deposited this sum on Oct. 24, 1924, to his own account at the National City Bank, raising his balance there to $8578. Within the next 25 days all but $1.55 of this was checked out. On Dec. 5 the company went into bankruptcy.

"What did you do with the money?" Jack Trauss was asked. "I paid the obligations of the firm."

"Name the persons you paid."

"I can't remember names."

"Do your company's books show who was paid?"

"Maybe."

Witness's Memory Bad.

"Did you give $2000 to your brother?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you ever get any jewelry or money from Ufland, for the jewelry and accommodation notes you gave him?"

"No, he took from me—not me from him."

Sol Trauss, it developed, had checking and savings accounts at the American Trust Co., and had checked out every cent about the time of the bankruptcy. He could not remember whether he had received $2000 from his brother, although the records indicated he had. All he knew was that he drew the money from the bank to pay "obligations" of the firm.

Revelations of Ufland.

Existence of the private checking accounts of the Trauss brothers was revealed in a confession made by Ufland, before he went to prison.

The crash of Ufland's enterprise, the Milton Watch Co. of New York and the National Jewelry Co. of St. Louis, was followed by the bankruptcy of the Trauss brothers. Morris Singer and Herman Rosenthal, St. Louis jewelers, who had dealings with him. Creditors lost about $300,000 through their operations.

On Oct. 4 a Federal grand jury indicted the Trauss brothers, Singer, Rosenthal, Herman Miller, Edward A. Kilmer and Fred Rubenstein, all St. Louis jewelers, on charges of aiding Ufland in concealment of assets of the defunct Milton Watch Co.

JUDGE SAYS CHEMIST TRIED TO POISON HIM IN REVENGE

Porterfield Testifies at Trial of Estabrook Whose Child Jurist Put in Mother's Care.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5.—Alva W. Estabrook of Denver, Colo., on trial in Federal Court here for using the poison mials in an attempt to poison Judge E. E. Porterfield sought revenge because of a decision given by the Judge. Judge Porterfield awarded custody of a child to Mrs. Estabrook in settling a family dispute.

It is charged that, angered by this, Estabrook, a cereal chemist, sent poisoned pancake flour to Porterfield's home. Mrs. Porterfield testified that she had made the flour into pancakes and all of the family and the family dogs were made ill by them.

Judge Porterfield said that in 1924 Estabrook called on him in regard to family disputes. Later the father-in-law, C. A. Slater, and Estabrook's wife came in and discussed their troubles in the presence of the chemist. They said that Estabrook had knocked Slater down with a club and had chased Mrs. Estabrook with a pistol. Later the Judge awarded the Estabrook child to the mother. Two letters to the Judge were introduced, purporting to have been written by Estabrook. The first one, dated Oct. 11, 1924, said: "I am going to get even. You made an unfair order and you cannot enforce it. I am going to make you enforce it or withdraw it like the coward you are."

ILLINOIS TAX CHANGE ISSUE STILL DUBIOUS

Canal Lands Leasing Proposition May Have Carried, Present Returns Indicate.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Only the official canvass will disclose whether the proposed constitutional tax amendment and the canal lands leasing proposition won or lost in the Illinois election Tuesday.

The fate of the tax amendment today was dubious and the canal lands proposal which may have passed, was not decided by the incomplete returns. Both propositions received majorities, but, to be effective, each requires a favorable majority of all votes cast in the election.

The latest tabulations from 2703 out of 2719 precincts in Cook County and from 1753 out of 3510 precincts downstate gave:

Tax proposition: Yes, 431,473; No, 253,271.

Canal proposition: Yes, 602,266; No, 253,271.

The proposition to amend the Volstead act to allow individual states to determine for themselves what constitutes intoxicating liquor appears to have been overwhelmingly approved throughout the State. The total present vote gives 607,789 for the proposition and 222,323 against it.

MOTHER OF BROWNING'S WIFE TO DEFEND SUIT FOR LIBEL

Mrs. Heenan Appointed Guardian in Third Suit Involving School Girl Bride.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Carolyn M. Heenan has been appointed guardian for her daughter, Frances Heenan (Duchess) Browning, to defend the suit brought against her daughter by Marian Dockerill for libel. Justice Wasservogel made the appointment in Supreme Court.

Mrs. Dockerill filed suit on the ground that she had been damaged by newspaper articles signed by "Peaches," in which she said she was referred to as a cult leader sought out by Edward W. Browning, 55-year-old wealthy realty operator, in connection with his romance with the school girl.

As a result of the court's action, Mrs. Heenan will act as guardian for her daughter in three cases. Previously she had been appointed guardian in a separation suit the girl bride is bringing against Browning and in a separation suit Browning has brought against his wife.

WOMAN SUES FOR $25,000 DAMAGES, ALLEGING TRESPASS

Action Against A. H. Watson and Other Based on Service of Papers in Suit Over Estate.

Suit for $25,000 damages, alleging trespass, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Anna Schrage against Andrew H. Watson, head of a law reporting and process serving company, Mrs. Harriet O'Neil and Miss Grace A. Worthington.

The petition charges that Watson, at the instance of the other two defendants, entered plaintiff's home at 2900 Russell boulevard without her consent to serve court papers in a suit brought by the seven daughters of the late James A. Worthington to recover an interest in his estate.

The suit was directed against their stepmother, Mrs. Emily Schrage Worthington, who is said to claim the whole of her husband's property, valued at $50,000. Watson said he was accompanied by a Sheriff's deputy when he served the papers.

PRESIDENT OF ALDERMEN TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Walter J. G. Neun Announces Candidacy to Again Head Board in Election Next April.

Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election at the election of April, 1927. At that time, the president of the board and 14 aldermen will be chosen, all being nominated and elected by city-wide vote.

The managers of the Miller recall movement, with which Neun is not connected, have stated that the proposal to recall the Mayor will be submitted to the voters at the April election. If such a proposal were to carry, the person elected president of the Board of Aldermen would become Mayor until the election of November, 1928.

ATLAS CEMENT CO. TO MAKE HEADQUARTERS IN ST. LOUIS

Concern Operating Seven Mills Will Move Main Office From Chicago.

St. Louis is to be the headquarters of the Atlas Portland Cement Co., which operates seven mills in various parts of the United States. It was announced today by F. P. Allen, manager of the local office. The personnel and records from the main office at Chicago will be moved to St. Louis by the middle of next month. Chicago will become a branch office. Headquarters here will be in the Ambassador Building, at Seventh and Locust streets. Allen stated that the company was prompted to set up its chief office here because of the more centralized location of St. Louis, which is readily accessible to all its plants, notably those at Hannibal, Independence, Kan., and the new mill at Birmingham, Ala.

MARRIAGES DECREASE 2000 IN ILLINOIS

Divorce Rate in State Is Lowered at Same Time, However.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The number of marriages in Illinois decreased by nearly 2000 in 1925, compared with 1924, according to census figures announced today by the Department of Commerce in Washington. The number of divorces increased about 200 over the same period, but the department points out that this was less than the increase in population, so that the divorce rate fell slightly.

The estimated population of Illinois on July 1, 1925, was 7,092,588, and on July 1, 1924, 6,885,757. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1000 of the population was 11.3 in 1925 as against 11.7 in 1924; and the number of divorces per 1000 of the population was 1.94 in 1925, as against 1.95 in 1924.

GOV. FERGUSON'S HUSBAND

FILES $100,000 LIBEL SUIT
Charges Dallas News Printed Road Contractor's Story Which Is Declared to Be False.

By the Associated Press.
TEMPLE, Tex., Nov. 5.—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, seeks damages of $100,000 for alleged libel in a suit filed in District Court here against the Dallas News.

The petition names as cause for action, an article published in the News reporting the testimony of J. D. Winder, a road contractor, before a hearing of the House Committee authorized at the recent special session of the Legislature, to investigate operations of Texas State departments during the Ferguson administration. The article, Ferguson's petition asserts, appeared under the headline, "Ferguson Demanded 10 Per Cent on Bid."

Winder was quoted in the article as testifying he had been told by Ferguson he was to receive a 75,000 road contract, and that Ferguson "said he wanted 10 per cent of it and that he would like to have it in $5 and $10 bills." Ferguson subsequently issued a denial to all allegations made by Winder. The petition alleges that the Legislature's committee has no legal standing because Gov. Ferguson did not authorize the Legislature to appoint an investigating committee in her call for the special session. Ferguson's petition also contends that proceedings of the investigating committee are not privileged for publication.

Work of Recovering Bodies of 44 Missing Men at Ishpeming Proceeds Under Difficulties.

By the Associated Press.
ISHPEMING, Mich., Nov. 5.—The honeycombed workings of a number of abandoned iron mines today were lending a helping hand to the men engaged in the difficult work of recovering the bodies of the miners entrapped in the cave-in at the Barnes-Hecker mine here Wednesday.

The seemingly impossible task of ever clearing the flooded pit took on a more encouraging aspect late last night when the water which filled the shaft began receding of its own accord. Mine engineers expressed the opinion that the water had broken through to underground caverns of adjacent worked out iron mines. Officials are hopeful the waters may be drawn off in such quantities as of clearing the first level where it is believed many of the 44 bodies unaccounted for may be found.

This settlement was robbed of nearly every man resident by the disaster Wednesday, which took 51 lives. As the work of returning the dead to their families proceeded, there were only two men residents of the community to help. In the homes the widows sat comforting their children, and accepting their loss with the heroic stoicism common to their English ancestry. The disaster left 160 orphans.

MAN FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS

Receipts in Pocket Bear Name of Albert Wilson.

The body of an unidentified man, about 25 years old, was found on the Frisco Railroad tracks east of Kingshighway boulevard, at 4:30 p. m. yesterday, shortly after a westbound freight train passed.

In his pocket was a receipt showing the shipment of a grip to Sweetwater, Tex., in the name of Albert Wilson. Police believe he fell while riding between cars or attempting to board the train.

$85 Handbag Stolen at Church.

Miss Ida Morschell, 1020 Big Bend boulevard, St. Louis County, has reported the theft of a beaded bag valued at $85 while she was singing in the choir at Third Baptist Church Sunday evening. She left the bag with her wraps in an anteroom after an escort had promised to watch the articles. He, however, became interested in the service and during his short absence from the anteroom some person took Miss Morschell's bag.

Man Slashes Wrists With Knife.

William Wozniak, 28 years old, of 3689 Laclede avenue, slashed his wrists with a pocket knife at 11:45 o'clock last night when his wife, Margaret, of 4563 McMillan avenue, who divorced him yesterday, refused to be reconciled. He was taken to city hospital.

Hard Pimples Over Face, Itched

"The skin trouble I was bothered with was scattered all over my face.
Some of the pimples were hard and tered. They itched and burned and my skin was very rough.

"I used several remedies without success. I began using Cuticura time I could see that they were helping me. I continued the treatment and now I am healed." (Signed)

HEAD OF BANKRUPT
FIRM QUESTIONED

Henry G. Latal Grilled About Disposition of Assets Totaling About $1200.

Henry G. Latal, whose "mind was a blank" Monday in bankruptcy court when he tried to account for $534 of the Dorothy Lee Manufacturing Co., of which he was president, which he drew out of the bank when the millinery concern
went bankrupt, yesterday told Referee Coles the amount was salary
due him.

"My mind was a blank Monday,"
he said. "Besides all the trouble I had before, my automobile was stolen Sunday and a few minutes later was in an accident and six or seven people were sent to the hospital."

It was brought out that he had included the salary claim in the schedule of liabilities of the company, he attested, Aug. 16 last. The check was dated Aug. 14. He said he had kept for himself only $10.
He had taken $500 to the National Bank of Commerce to apply on two $1500 notes of the company, he said, and a cashier's check for the $500 was held there with the notes pending winding up of the bankruptcy.

"You were one of the signers of those notes, weren't you?" asked the referee. "You would have to make them good if the company did not?" Latal admitted that was true.

Referee Coles returned to a grill-ing begun Monday about $266 in checks, collected for the concern, which Latal had cashed for his personal use. Latal explained that members of his family were ill. "I needed the money," he said, "and I had to get it somewhere."

Action Against First National.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 5.—
The Thos. H. Ince Corporation has

ducer, between August, 1921, and the time of his sudden death in November, 1924.

The Ince Corporation charges that First National, following Ince's death, substituted its own pictures in a number of contracts
with exhibitors and also destroyed valuable prints of pictures when it abandoned its contract.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Petition for

AMERICAN CONSUL-GENERAL RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Consul-
General Tracy H. Lay of Buenos Aires has called his resignation to the State Department. It has not been accepted and the department has called Lay asking him to reconsider. Lay, whose home is Montgomery, Ala., did not notify the department what reasons had prompted him to tender his resignation. Officials said, however, that the resignation could not be connected in any way with Lay's authorship of a book, published about two years ago, in which he criticized the Commerce Department's attitude toward the American trade.

G. O. P. PRESIDENTIAL HOPES NOW WAIT FOR SOMEONE TO RAISE THIRD-TERM QUESTION

Whoever Does It Can't Win, So All Hang Back
—Election Clears Air for Democrats
As Well As Republicans.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Democratic gains in Tuesday's election, particularly the election of Walsh
of Massachusetts, with corollary,
the retirement of Senator Butler not only from the Senate, but from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, makes acute the big question now agitating the G. O. P.—who will bell the cat on the third term issue?

There are at least a score of eminent Republicans with hopes of their own, who are aching for somebody to start the ball rolling.
Every one of these, however, knows that the fellow who starts anything thereby deprives himself of any chance of inheriting the Coolidge delegates. Each is waiting for the other fellow to pry loose the avalanche.

On the Democratic side the election equally is fraught with Presidential manifestations.
Two-Thirds Rule to Stand.

To start with, the two-thirds rule
for presidential conventions is going to be retained. The agitation to drop the two-thirds rule while retaining unit rule for State delegations, which was launched by Clyde Herring, Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa, who
was generally accepted as the leader of the William G. McAdoo forces, has been pretty successfully stayed.

A quiet campaign followed the perception that the intention was
to drop the two-thirds rule while
retaining unit rule for State delegations, which was launched by
Clyde Herring, Democratic National
Committeeman from Iowa, who
was generally accepted as the
leader of the William G. McAdoo

Meredit and Barkley.

At all events the recognition that there was a joker in the program started the damming of the Herring plan. Then the various corollary sons got scared of it. Since Tuesday it is recognized that Gov.
Smith has the ball and it must be taken away from him if any of these are to have a chance.

PARIS POLICE TO QUESTION
GARIBALDI ABOUT PLOTS

Italian Liberator's Grandson Suspected of Antifascist Activity
at Nice.

Copyright 1926 by the Post and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).
PARIS, Nov. 5.—Ricciotti Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian liberator, has arrived in Paris in custody from Nice to be questioned about the unsuccessful Catalonian uprising in Spain and Antifascist activities in Nice. Attention of French police was directed to Garibaldi by letters found in the headquarters of Col. Francesco Macia, head of the Spanish complicitors, indicating that Garibaldi was gathering a band of Italians to co-operate with the Spanish
chief in the attempted march on Barcelona.
Detectives searched Garibaldi's residence at Nice and reported finding a mass of evidence of his dealings with Italian and Anti-Fascists.
Garibaldi fought for France during the war and is a Knight of the Legion of Honor.

four-time Governor might attain perilously near to a majority in the convention.

The election clarified the situation for both parties. It eliminated the possibility of a Democratic Pomerene on the Republican side and lessened the Republican congestion by disposing of Wadsworth,
as well as making it most unlikely that Mr. Coolidge will attempt to succeed himself. On the other hand, it brought new life to both Willis and Longworth of Ohio, and naturally to ex-Gov. Lowden of Illinois.

Willis Thinks It His Due.

Willis believes he was hardly used by fate in that he is not already in the White House. Back in 1920 it was only the persistence of Harry M. Daugherty that made Harding instead of Willis the alternative when Gen. Wood and Lowden had washed themselves out of consideration by the flood of money that their managers
put into their pre-convention campaigns.

Harding had been elected Senator and Willis had been Governor.
The country at large knew nothing about either of them, but recognized the strategic value of any man who could redeem Ohio from the hold the Democrats had on it.
In the councils for the Republican chiefs of the State, Daugherty, the boldest if not the most powerful, prevailed.

As Longworth, there is, of course, historic precedent for the aspirations of the Speaker of the House. In a country diversified between wet and dry, he might get
by. The biggest difficulty with the Longworth boom is that it would be a conflict with the plans of Long-worth's brother-in-law, Col. Roosevelt. Young Roosevelt is credited with the ambition to follow in his father's footsteps. He started all right in the New York Legislature, kept step as Assistant Secretary of the State and it was not his fault that Gov. Smith interfered with the next step, the governorship of New York.

Borah Always a Possibility.

There remains in the background always, Borah. His course in the campaign was exactly what a candidate for the presidential nomination would naturally follow.
He did not sulk, but what speeches he made were not where they could hurt him with either
the regulars or the Progressives.
He valiantly addressed audiences
in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, where he needed that assistance as much as Henry Ford needs another flivver. He stayed out of Pennsylvania and Illinois, where the slush funds were dangerous,
and did not show in Massachusetts,
though every Republican candidate for Senator with a bad light bombarded him with appeals for succor.

In an open field Borah could probably come to a convention as well backed far from delegates as any of them, but until somebody touches off the third term mine for Mr. Coolidge the field is not open.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER URGES
ACCORD WITH UNITED STATES

Two Countries, Both Powers, for Peace, Alike in Many Ways, Says Bruce.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Those who sat at the luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce in London yesterday showed curious surprise when Stanley M. Bruce, youthful Premier of Australia, declared that the British King and Government had been wholly wrong in the struggle against the American colonies. He said Australia would have fought alongside the American colonies.
He eased the situation for his English auditors, however, by saying that Australia now enjoyed full liberty as a nation of the British commonwealth because of the victories of the American colonies.
Bruce struck the keynote of an American-Australian accord when he pointed out that the positions of these two countries as great Pacific Powers made the solution of the problems of the United States and Australia of mutual concern. "Australians and Americans," he said, "are alike in looking with horror on the ancient habreds and animosities which divide the peoples of Europe. They are equally in the hope of allied civilization in which none of the old animosities
or hatreds will be present.
Both Americans and Australians desire earnestly to keep free from entanglement in the Old World;
they desire to carry out their great tasks of economic and social advancement, and there is between them a very binding link—the same attitude of mind, the same outlook on world problems. They are both great pacific powers which visualize in the future the transfer of the world's commerce
from the older continents to the newer world."

GANTT 1216 AHEAD OF OTTO WITH BUT 35 PRECINCTS OUT

Votes as Yet Unreported
Probably Will Increase Democrat's Lead for the Supreme Court.

OFFICIAL CANVASS
BEGINS TODAY

Returns on Propositions Are Still Fragmentary, but
Nos. 1 and 2 Win and
Nos. 3 and 4 Lose.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

In the nose-to-nose race between Ernest S. Gantt (Dem.) of Mexico and Robert W. Otto (Rep.) of Jefferson City for the State Supreme Court, it seems reasonably certain, on the basis of unofficial returns from all but 35 precincts, that the total vote, leaving out of consideration the absentee ballots, will show Gantt leading by slightly more than 1000. For most counties the figures have been checked back, and are believed to be correct.

On the basis of past elections,
there probably remain about 7000
absentee ballots to be counted, and while there is no means of ascertaining in advance of the official canvass how these are divided, in previous elections they have been about the same proportion as the regular vote.

If they run that way this year,
they would not alter the result, but would slightly increase Gantt's lead.
The official returns, including the count of absentee ballots, began coming in this afternoon, bringing a number of changes in the totals without materially increasing the number of precincts heard from. So far on the official figures Gantt has been steadily lengthening his lead.

Revision Swells Gantt's Lead.

There were some revisions of previously reported figures in reports received this morning, increasing Gantt's lead on the same number of precincts reported last night.
In one precinct, Gantt had a lead of 461 on receipt of complete returns from Monroe County.

The total vote for the 4059 reported precincts out of 4124 precincts in the State was: Gantt 456,254; Otto, 455,133, a lead for Gantt of 1216.

That this lead will be increased as reports are received from the outstanding precincts appears certain when their location is considered. All are in counties which normally are Democratic, or which on the returns in are going for Gantt, as follows: Henry, 7; Mar-
ies, 4; Oregon, 3; Platte, 5; Reynolds, 6; Shannon, 8, and Stoddard, 2.

Official Canvass Begins.

The official canvass of returns in all the counties and in St. Louis begins today, and by night
the returns should be officially complete everywhere, except possibly in St. Louis and Kansas City, where the large number of precincts may delay the canvass on Sunday.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Foreign Minister Stresemann has told the Foreign Relations Committee of the Reichstag that his conversation at The Hague with Foreign Minister Briand of France will not begin to bear fruit for about a year and that there is no hope of allied occupation of the Rhineland within that time.

Stresemann holds that the marketing of the Dawes plan railway bonds, as originally contemplated
in the Thoiry program, is closely connected with the revision of the Dawes plan. It is understood that leading American, British and Continental bond houses have informed him that they must have right-of-way guarantees on any German railway bonds offered to the public.

Union Heads Resumes Negotiations
With Government.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Peace in the coal fields is in sight. Trade union officials said negotiations with the Government had been resumed. The Government today was in communication with the mine owners.
The ground is more favorable for peace, because, although the miners have failed to induce their brother unions to place an embargo on coal movements to make a forced levy
to help the strike, the trades union congress has showed its good will by voting £10,000 from its funds to help the miners over the settlement and by suggesting to the members of the congress that they should voluntarily levy a penny a week on themselves to aid the strikers' funds.

RUSSIA'S WOMAN ENVOY TO MEXICO BARRED FROM U. S.

Department of State Invokes Executive Order of Wilson Against Mme.
Kollantay.

SHE MUST NOW GO TO MEXICO DIRECT

Exclusion From U. S. Based on Fact She Is "Outstanding Member of Communist Party."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The executive order of President Wilson barring advocates of anarchy, revolution or agitation from the United States has been invoked again by the State Department—this time to prevent Soviet Russia's sole woman
diplomat, Madame Alexandra Kollantaya, from passing through this country on her way to her new post
as minister to Mexico.

Previously the order had been invoked by Secretary of State Kellogg to bar the Count and Countess Karolyi of Hungary and Shapurji Saklatvala, then a communist member of the British Parliament, from visiting the United States.

Madame Kollantay, former soviet minister to Norway, is in Berlin
now and had applied to the American Consul-General there for a passport visa which would have permitted her to visit the United States. The request was denied by the Consul-General, with the full approval of the State Department,
on the ground that Mme. Kollantay was "one of the outstanding members of the Russian communist party and a member of the third congress of the communist international, who has been actively associated with the international communist subversive movement."

She is the daughter of a famous Russian General.

Under the presidential proclamation of 1918, the congressional act
of May of that year, Secretary Kellogg has formulated a policy forbidding all foreign service officers of the United States to grant
visas except when the applicant
makes it evident that there is no reasonable necessity for entry into the United States and that the presence of the visitor would not be prejudicial to the interests of government or society.

Secretary Kellogg, in the cases of Count and Countess Karolyi and Saklatvala, let it be known that he thought that undesirable aliens could be excluded from the United States more easily than they could be dealt with after they were admitted.

Russian diplomats in Berlin, confirming the refusal of a visa, declined to comment other than to characterize the action as a "political event."

Instead of entering the United States, Madame Kollantay will succeed Senator Wadsworth as chairman of the Military Committee of the House of Representatives.

Changes in Chairmanships.

Shakeup in several of the more important of the Senate standing committees will be necessary as a result of Tuesday's elections.
There will be no changes, however,
in the chairmanships of any of the major House committees.

New chairmen of the Senate
military, privileges and elections,
public lands and Indian affairs
committees must be selected because of the defeat of Senator
Wadsworth, New York; Ernest
Kentucky; Stanford, Oregon, and Harrell, Oklahoma.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, a World War veteran, probably will
succeed Senator Wadsworth as
chairman of the Military Committee since the ranking member, Senator Warren, is chairman of the appropriations group, and Senator Cameron of Arizona, next in line,
failed of re-election.

Senator Watson of Indiana is the
ranking Republican on the privileges and elections body, but is not expected to relinquish his chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee to take this other
post. "Senator Shortridge of California, is next behind Watson.
This committee would be the one to inquire into the qualifications of Senators-elect Vane of Pennsylvania, and Smith, of Illinois, should their right to seats be challenged because of heavy expenditures in their primary campaigns last spring.

McNary May Get Post.

Senator McNary of Oregon, 13th
chairman of the Agriculture Committee, is in the position for the position after Curtis, who is Minneapolis, taking rank behind him.

MADDEN PREDICTS
$200,000,000 TAX CUT

Illinois' Tells How Congress
Came to Provide Installment Payment Plan.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Taxes on 1927 incomes will be cut by Congress by $200,000,000 and $300,000,000, Martin B. Madden, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, predicted yesterday.

Citing a probable Treasury surplus this year of $250,000,000, Madden said Congress "will undoubtedly be able to arrange a new tax cut effective in 1928 on 1927 incomes," and declared that he would recommend such a reduction.

Removal of the theater and amusement tax, a further reduction of the surtax and a cut in the tax on corporations are among the next steps in the lightening of the nation's tax burden, Madden said,
although he hesitated to indicate what taxes would receive the benefit of the forthcoming cut.

The proposed tax reduction, according to Representative Madden,
will be made possible by the contemporary surplus. With the surplus available to the Treasury at the end of 1926, he suggested, it should be simple to effect savings
in 1927 that will justify a reduction along the lines he will recommend.

The plea prompted Madden to call a meeting of the appropriations committee, which decided on the quarterly payment plan to reduce sudden strain on the nation's reservoirs of credit.

ate of the Seventieth Congress will show 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Labor, with one vacancy, from Maine, to be filled at a special election on No-

In the present Senate the Republi-

one vacancy. In the present House
the Republicans have 246; the Democrats 181; the Farmer-Labor
3; Socialists 2 and vacancies three.

Shakeup in several of the more
important of the Senate standing
committees will be necessary as a
result of Tuesday's elections.
There will be no changes, however,
in the chairmanships of any of the
major House committees.

New chairmen of the Senate
military, privileges and elections,
public lands and Indian affairs
committees must be selected because of the defeat of Senator
Wadsworth, New York; Ernest

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, a World War veteran, probably will
succeed Senator Wadsworth as
chairman of the Military Commit-

Cameron of Arizona, next in line,
failed of re-election.

Senator Watson of Indiana is the
ranking Republican on the privi-

post. "Senator Shortridge of Cal-

CHRYSAANTHEMUM SHOW OPENS SUNDAY

Some Nearly 9 Feet Tall in Display at Shaw's Garden, to Contain 3000 Plants.

Chrysanthemums nearly nine feet tall are among the 300 varieties—3000 plants—being built up in a formal garden in the floral display house at Shaw's Garden for the famous annual "mum" show, which will open Sunday and continue through November.

It is 22 years since this annual St. Louis institution was inaugurated, but the chrysanthemum garden is a design never seen in these years before. The huge ones are arranged in three central panels, and about them are banks of the small bush varieties.

Suspended from the roof are baskets of bright flowers on longly pendant stems. It was only five or six years ago that the "mum" show found only in the observatory bloom simple as an obelisk, learned to grow in baskets, but it has learned beautifully.

This has been a good year for chrysanthemums, indoors and out, and the display shows it. Among the best are the big yellow "mums," the marguerites, of disheveled petals. Then there is the David Lloyd George in red bronze, the white, pink or yellow flowers, and the dazzling white "Edwin Wilson" with its deep red heart.

In splendid isolation stand two specimens reaching a height of eight and a half feet. They are the pink N. L. Roseau and the white Timothy Eaton. Pompons are shown in a hundred shades. Every subtle variation of every color but blue is found in the show. Among the favorites are the general favorite, the caprice, white or yellow, which has several hundred blossoms to the plant.

Another warrant, charging Miller with attempted criminal assault, for which is 15 years' imprisonment, was issued today on complaint of Mrs. Guy.

PERMISSION FOR CAPE GIRARDEAU BRIDGE IS ASKED

War Department Engineer Takes Application Under Advisement Following St.
Louis Hearing.

OLD RIVER MEN OFFER CONFLICTING VIEWS

Testimony Is Confined to Question of Proposed Span's Effect Upon Navigation—Plans Explained.

Application for a War Department permit for construction of a $1,600,000 highway bridge across the Mississippi River at Cape Girardeau, Mo., was taken under advisement yesterday by Maj. John C. Gotwals, district engineer, following a hearing at the Federal Building here.

Maj. Gotwals will send his recommendation to the department at Washington and the permit may be issued in about a month. Construction is expected to start shortly thereafter, with a view to opening the bridge for traffic in the spring of 1928.

Yesterday's hearing was confined to the question of the effect the bridge will have on navigation. The structure proper will be 4200 feet long, extending from a bluff at the foot of Morgan-Oak street, Cape Girardeau, to the Illinois shore, where a long filled-in approach will carry the roadway across a levee.

Engineer Is Questioned. As designed now, there will be a short span carrying the bridge across railroad tracks on the Missouri shore and another short span, with trusses swung underneath, traversing lowland between the bank and the channel, which sometimes is covered by high water. This span was a particular object of discussion at the hearing.

Beyond it there are to be two large spans, each 651 feet long, high above the stream level, and then six shorter spans dropping down at a grade of about 3 per cent.

John Lyle Harrington of Harrington, Howard & Ash of Kansas City, engineers and designers of the bridge, explained at the hearing that the long span on the Missouri side covers the present channel and the presumption was that the channel would be kept there through War Department river control work, but that the next span, too, would serve boats and even the smaller spans on the Illinois side would permit navigation with reasonably high water.

River Men Protest. Capt. William H. Leyhe, master of the steamer Cape Girardeau of the Eagle Packet Co., and his brother, Capt. Henry W. Leyhe, secretary-treasurer-manager of the same company, old-time river men, told Maj. Gotwals that the first span, between shore and channel, would hinder navigation.

"I don't want anyone to say, 50 years from now, that Buck Leyhe was responsible for putting that pier there," the former said. "It ought to be at the shore, so you'd have a shore line to run by. No one would kick, though, about the 62 1/2-foot clearance of the main spans above the high-water level of '44."

Henry Leyhe said it might be better to extend the western main span to 700 feet length to accommodate large modern barges tows readily.

Harrington explained that the pier of the objectionable span had been located at the low-water edge and if it was moved closer to the bank the next pier would have to be moved in, reducing the width of the channel span. Capt. J. J. Kennedy, a river man employed by the Engineers' Corps, agreed in the view that the short span was a hindrance.

Says Long Spans Needed. Capt. J. S. Hacker of Cairo, general manager of the Cairo City Ferry Co., another old river man, asserted that more than two large spans are needed to meet possible shifting of the channel. Every bridge on every navigable stream is a menace to navigation, taking its toll of boat wrecks, he maintained, but the growing use of automobiles, he added, made more bridges necessary to connect national highways.

The Cape Girardeau bridge, however, he said, would not serve the purpose but only would gratify local pride. He was cautioned to stick to the question of navigation. United States Highway 51, which parallels the Mississippi through Missouri, runs through Cape Girardeau, and a link of the projected new Illinois hard road system, north of Cairo, will reach the eastern approach of the bridge.

Hacker added that long spans are needed because large tows of barges go down in the current there at an angle of 45 degrees to the stream. Modern boats are low and wide, he noted, unlike the towering craft of an earlier day.

Others Favor Plans. The two channel spans would be wholly insufficient at certain river stages, Capt. A. C. James, master of a ferry now handling cross traffic at Cape Girardeau, asserted. He suggested more room under the eastern spans so boats could evade the main current in high water. He thought there should be five channel spans.

A contrary view, approving the bridge plans, was taken in a letter from the manager of the Cape Girardeau Sand Co., a former pilot, which was read. He didn't think boats could use the Illinois side of the water.

The Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce applied for the bridge permit and a corporation was formed. W. H. Compton & Co. of St. Louis is financing the enterprise and $1,000,000 in bonds and $600,000 in stock has been subscribed. The same financiers and engineers are constructing a highway bridge over the Mississippi at Louisiana, Mo.

YALE BARELY ESCAPES DEFICIT

Only Money Given University by Alumni Prevents It.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Only through the aid of gifts made by graduates to the alumni university fund during the year ending June 30 was Yale University able to complete the year without a deficit, according to the annual report of the university treasurer and associate treasurer and comptroller. Expenses for the year were $4,573,441. Of this, $326,582 were appropriated by the directors of the alumni fund. A total of $3,246,859 was added to the principal of this fund, which June 30 was $2,816,640.

The university received during the fiscal year gifts and bequests amounting to $4,747,895. This included the appropriation from the alumni fund. But for the continued help of graduates through the alumni fund, much instruction in fields for which endowment has not yet been obtained would have to be deferred or abandoned, the report says.

"IT PROVED TO BE THE VERY THING I NEEDED"

At First He Didn't Believe It Was Possible, But Was Fully Convinced After a Thorough Trial—Now He Wants Others to Try It.

"It seemed miraculous to me that I could feel so different in less than a month's time, as I was almost down and broken in health and at times I felt like I would be forced to give up my job. I was advised to try Herb Juice and, while I was doubtful at first about the results, it proved to be the very thing I needed," said E. L. Miller, 1902 North Euclid Ave., St. Louis, in a recent conversation with the special representative of the popular medicine-called Herb Juice.

"I didn't think it was possible," continued Mr. Miller, "to get the relief that I received from my first bottle of Herb Juice. It worked so well in my case that I feel as though I have been saved much unnecessary suffering, to say nothing of the loss of time from my work and the money spent for needless as it was with me before. My system was in a bad condition, to say the least. I had chronic constipation, inactive liver, painful gases in my stomach and around my heart; nothing I ate would stay on my stomach, food would sour and cause terrible burning sensations and a tight feeling after eating so it was forced to diet myself. As a result I lost in weight and strength until I was hardly able to stand on my feet. I dreaded my work hours for I knew that I would have to go through with my duties. FLEXIBLE WAGE SCALE ADVOCATED FOR ILLINOIS MINES

Stuyvesant Peabody Says That It Is Impossible to Compete With Nonunion Fields.

200 SHAFTS IN STATE IDLE ALL SUMMER

Operator Boosts Fuel Produced in Springfield Territory as of "Greatest Value."

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 5.—A flexible wage scale for Illinois miners that will bring back the 200,000 tons of output a year, lost to the State for the past three years, is the hope of Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the coal company bearing his name, he said today in a speech prepared for delivery before the Midday Luncheon Club of Springfield.

"Everything else but that," said Peabody, "we have to make our industry a very prosperous and helpful one to all the people in the State of Illinois."

"I have lived in the belief that nothing when it does happen is half as bad as we think it is going to be, before it happens, and I am looking forward to the day when our great union in this State, which has done so much for the mine workers throughout the world, will make the final step of partnership with the capital that is trying to operate the mines, and will give to Illinois a flexible wage scale."

"Wonderful Natural Conditions." "Illinois has the most wonderful natural conditions which make for the cheapest production of coal of any State in the union. The district to my mind of the greatest value to Illinois for future production of steam coal is the district that lies in and around the city of Springfield, extending from Springfield some 10 miles to the south. The coal lies in a seam, averaging from six to seven and one-half feet in thickness, is very level with no grades in it and has an excellent bottom and roof."

"Every day makes it more evident that power will be produced in this country from the coal that is nearest to the point of production. There have been most astonishing developments in the use of powdered coal in the last few months, which, to my mind, will revolutionize the production of power from coal. These developments make it possible to get close to 90 per cent efficiency out of any kind of coal and tend to make coal that takes the least freight rate to points of consumption the most valuable. As the Springfield district lies in the heart of industrial America, within 200 miles of Chicago, the majority of the power used in the Chicago district as well as in the many factories which are springing up throughout the State of Illinois, especially in the Northern section, will make this district more and more valuable."

Operate With Heavy Losses.

"We have been struggling under a non-competitive wage scale which has made it impossible for the owners of more than 200 mines in this State to operate at any time last winter. A large majority of those who have continued to operate have done so with such heavy losses as to seriously deplete their reserves and the reserves of many have been completely exhausted. I doubt if over five Illinois coal producing companies have made any profit during the last six months."

"Our costs have been so far out of line with that of competing non-union coal that I am very hopeful of something being done between now and next spring which will permit the mines in Illinois to furnish coal to the territory which should be served by it."

Non-union Scale Advanced.

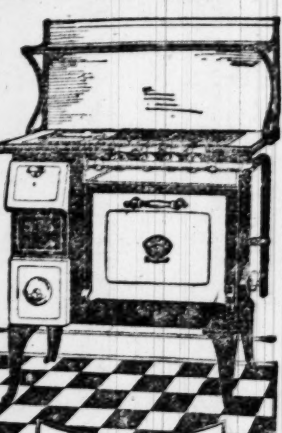

"In the last three weeks the general market for coal has shown advances throughout the world, due primarily to psychological reaction from the English coal strike, and this has had astonishing results and in practically every non-union district wages have been promptly raised to equal the Jacksonville scale, which is the scale we have been suffering under in Illinois."

"Our company believes so thoroughly in the wonderful future of coal in the State of Illinois, especially that in Central Illinois, that we have recently purchased seven mines in this district, although this district has not been growing its production going steadily backwards and there having been no new mines sunk in the entire field within the past nine years."

"This brings our very forcibly the great weakness in Illinois coal position. We have been steadily losing tonnage that belonged to us, for the past three years, because our Jacksonville scale wages were so much higher than those paid in non-union fields that we could not compete. It would have taken only a small decrease to have made us competitive, but the non-competitiveness of our union contracts made this impossible."

U. S. ADMITS WOMAN WHO LOST HER PERMIT

Secretary of Labor Gives Order and Miss Komarmicka Leaves Ellis Island.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—An executive order from Secretary of Labor Davis yesterday allowed Miss Anne Komarmicka to re-enter the country.

Miss Komarmicka, who came to the United States in 1910 at the age of 14, has spent more than a month on Ellis Island because her permit to re-enter the country, after a visit to her parents in Warsaw, was stolen in Paris. When she arrived here Sept. 29 her exclusion was ordered and, although she convinced immigration officials that she was the person to whom the stolen permit had been issued, the order was not rescinded.

Assistant Secretary of Labor White visited Ellis Island Wednesday and talked with Miss Komarmicka. Yesterday Secretary Davis ordered her released on parole. She left New York last night for her home in Chicago.

CALLS LIVESTOCK MARKETING AGENCY IMPORTANT TO FARMER

Missouri Agricultural College Expert Says They Handle Fifth of Product Sold.

By the Associated Press. COLUMBIA, Mo.—Sale of livestock produced on the farm constitutes the chief source of income for farmers of Missouri and it is of prime importance that they take an active interest in the growth and development of livestock marketing agencies. Harry C. Hensley, marketing expert at the Missouri College of Agriculture, declared in a statement here.

Livestock marketed in Missouri last year was valued at more than $200,000,000 and it is but natural to suppose that great interest would center in the agencies and methods used in marketing the product, Hensley said.

"A rather recent development in livestock marketing agencies in this state is that of the livestock shipping associations, of which there are now 463 in number with a membership of about 35,000 farmers," the marketing expert declared.

"At present, these associations are handling slightly more than a fifth of the livestock sent to market, which on the basis of last year's shipments represented a sales volume of $40,000,000."

"According to a study conducted by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station, the average savings claimed by shipping associations amounts to 60 cents per hundred pounds, or slightly more than 5 per cent of the value of the livestock shipped."

"Applying this to the volume of business handled by shipping associations in Missouri last year, the savings total somewhat more than $2,000,000 which is no small amount to find its way back into the pockets of the producer."

DIES AFTER BANQUET SPEECH

Dr. W. E. Fothergill, Gynecologist, Succumbs in England.

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 5.—Dr. W. E. Fothergill, noted gynecologist, fell dead last night after conclusion of a humorous speech delivered at the University banquet. His last words were: "I have enjoyed tonight one of the best dinners I can remember."

Dr. Fothergill was honorary consulting gynecological surgeon of the Royal Infirmary. He was born in 1855.

Body of Hunter Found in Woods.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD Vt., Nov. 5.—The body of Alfred J. Bishop of Felchville has been found beside an abandoned road in the woods near the summer camp of Attorney-General John G. Sargent. Although there were evidences of a terrific struggle in the snow, preliminary examination disclosed no wounds on the body. Bishop's rifle, coat and gloves were found near by. Morris S. Gallagher of Felchville, a brother-in-law of Bishop, who had been his hunting companion, found the body after an extended search which began when Bishop failed to meet him at a designated place.

MANY 'HEIRS' CONTENT FOR $300,000 ESTATE

Scores Claim Shares, Although Recluse Could Locate No Relatives When Alive.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLINTON, Ill., Nov. 5.—With proved heirship narrowing to a few cousins who really appear to be related to the late Jefferson Doyle, eccentric recluse of Clinton, who left an estate of $300,000 but no will, there is a chance that the estate soon will be divided. After two years of litigation the case has been resumed in De Witt County Circuit Court, and it is believed that a report will be filed soon, bringing the case to a conclusion.

In all, 155 witnesses have been examined, and the arguments are at the final stage. No less than 55 law firms are representing as many clients.

Doyle, who was a farmer, bought land when it was cheap and held it until its price had advanced. He was eccentric and derived, apparently, little pleasure from his wealth. A few years before his death he decided to make a will, but first sought to locate possible relatives. Although he sent a lawyer to Ireland to make a quiet investigation, no one was found who was disposed to claim kinship to Doyle.

On his deathbed, according to testimony, Doyle made a verbal statement that he wished Fred Gould, a neighbor, to have all of his personal property, valued at $60,000, while two employees, Pearl McGrew and Alfred Roth, were to receive $5000 each. After the death of Doyle this nuncupative will was written out, signed by Gould, Roth and Miss McGrew and filed in court.

Although Doyle had been unable to locate any relatives, they became numerous when it was learned that he had left such a large estate and nearly every state in the Union produced one or more alleged kin, while a score appeared from Erin.

It is generally believed the claims will be invalidated by the Court and that this will result in appeal suits, which will keep the case pending until the Supreme Court finally settles it. In the event that the Court declines to concede the validity of the nuncupative will and also denies any relationship between Doyle and the scores of claimants, the entire estate will revert to the County Treasury.

PURIFICATION OF MUNICIPAL WATER SUPPLIES DISCUSSED

Pollution of Streams Used as Their Source an Acute Problem.

Engineers are Told.

Increasing pollution of streams used for municipal supplies requires treatment of city sewage and waste from industrial plants at the source, and careful purification of water at intakes, N. T. Veatch Jr., a consulting engineer, of Kansas City, told the Iowa section of the American Waterworks Association, in convention at Hotel Statler yesterday.

In this country, he said, 20,000,000 persons get their water from streams subject to sewage and trade pollution, and the problem is becoming more acute each year as cities grow in size and industries develop. St. Louis and Kansas City he named among communities affected.

John W. McEvoy of Dubuque, Ia., was elected chairman of the Iowa section of the association yesterday and Thomas J. Skinner, distribution engineer of the St. Louis Water Division, vice chairman. The annual dinner was held last night. Today the delegates inspected the St. Louis and East St. Louis waterworks.

STATE SUPREME COURT DENIES RELEASE OF GANGSTER ON BOND

Case That of Alfonso Palazzolo, Held at Clayton for Murder.

An application for the release on bond of Alfonso Palazzolo, Italian gangster and murder charge defendant, from Clayton jail, was denied yesterday by the State Supreme Court.

Palazzolo is charged with being one of three men who shot and killed Kostandy Aielouny, a linen peddler, in University City, Oct. 15. The police think the slayers of Aielouny believed him to be a spy for an opposing gang seeking information on the habits of John Giannola, Italian gang leader, near whose home the shooting took place.

Palazzolo has been identified as one of the gunmen by Louis Barrab, cousin of Aielouny, who was critically wounded when Aielouny was slain.

JUDGE BIASED, GOVERNOR SAYS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—State Senator Barbour's $50,000 slander suit against Gov. Small, was sent back to Judge Hugo Pam for reassignment yesterday by Superior Court Judge Joseph B. David, after defense attorneys requested a change of venue. The defense alleged that Judge David was prejudiced and had made statements denigratory of the Small administration. The suit grew out of campaign speeches made by Gov. Small in which reference was made to Senator Barbour.

ROOM HEATERS

Your room is colder close to the floor. The new Florence Room Heater throws out heat down low. Notice the curved fire-bowl. It is of porcelain enamel (an exclusive feature), and enamel radiates more heat than plain steel. It is also rust-proof and sanitary.

Quick heat when you need it

Chilly rooms threaten your health this time of year. Be sensible—invest a few dollars in comfort and save doctors' bills by getting one of the new Florence Room Heaters.

They give quick, intense heat wherever and whenever you want it. They are odorless—smokeless—safe—and mighty good-looking.

Take a few minutes today and stop in at a department, furniture, or hardware store and ask—not just for an oil heater, but for the new Florence Room Heater. Two sizes and two models to choose from.

A Sure Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never failed to remove dandruff, and that is to dissolve it, then destroy it entirely. To do this you get about four ounces of ordinary liquid ammonia from any store (this is all you will need) and at night when retiring apply it to the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most, if not all, your dandruff will be gone, and in three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. No matter how much dandruff you have.

You will find, too, all itching, itching, and your hair will be fluff, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

DURKIN FOUND GUILTY AGAIN

Overruled on Second of Indictments for Auto Theft.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Martin J. Durkin was found guilty last night on the second of seven Federal indictments, charging him with transporting stolen automobiles.

Durkin, who already faces 35 years in prison for the killing of Edward Shanahan, a policeman, heard the third pronouncement of guilty read two hours and a half after the jury retired. The jury, which found him guilty of the first Federal charge, recently, was out nearly 36 hours.

Judge Adam C. Cline said the judge case probably would be called Monday. Conviction on the Federal indictments carried a maximum penalty of five years each.

I.C.C. APPRAISES NICKEL PLATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—A tentative valuation on the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad was announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission today as $45,475,000 as of June 30, 1918.

This corporation, which is the central unit in the Nickel Plate Railroad merger plan, was said by the commission to have a total capitalization of $62,327,000, while its book investment in road and equipment was $67,361,000. The Nickel Plate operates 498 miles of line. In addition it uses property of other railroads to which the commission attached a value of $4,640,000. The company will be allowed to protest the finding.

MARKSWOMAN FRACTURED

NOSE FIRST TIME SHE SHOT

Nephews of Late Anne Oakley Recall She Refused to Let Injury Discourage Her.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5.—The first "kick" that Mrs. Frank Butler, famous markswoman, known as Annie Oakley, received from a gun broke her nose, but failed to destroy her determination to master firearms technique. This was disclosed here last night by C. G. Moses and Lee Moses, nephews of Mrs. Butler who died Wednesday at Greenville, O. The nephews are sons of J. H. Moses of McCurtain, Ok., only brother of the noted rifle and shotgun expert.

The nephews told how "Aunt Ann" when a small girl, would secretly follow her brother on hunting expeditions until they were so far from home she thought he would not send her back. Then she would beg to shoot his heavy shotgun.

After many such excursions he agreed she could shoot at a bird. First, however, he loaded the gun with two extra drams of powder in the hope it would "cure" her of the desire to shoot. The "kick" fractured her nose, but she killed the bird.

She then obtained a rifle and became so expert at shooting pen- nines from her nephews' heads that William F. Cody took her to many countries with his Buffalo Bill Wild West Show.

GIRL, 10, PREACHES IN CHURCH

Pittsburg Children's Bureau Threatens Pastor With Legal Action.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 5.—The Children's Service Bureau has threatened legal action against Dr. J. S. Weakland, local evangelist, if he persists in allowing his 10-year-old daughter, Betty, to deliver talks from pulpits.

The bureau maintains, through its secretary, David J. Terry, that the child's activities constitute a form of employment for gain and as such is illegal in Pennsylvania, where a minor must be 14 before starting to work. Dr. Weakland said he considered the child evangelist's preaching nothing more than good work and any minor's intention of consulting with counsel.

Shampooing helps to prevent baldness, if you use the right kind of a shampoo—one that does not extract the natural oil, dry up the scalp, and make the hair brittle. Thomas' Special Formula Shampoo not only cleanses the scalp surface, but permeates to the very roots of the hair. It nourishes the hair follicles, stimulates circulation, and actually promotes the functions of a healthy head. After its use, your scalp will be immaculate. Your hair will glow with cleanliness and renewed life. It leaves the hair beautiful, soft and silky. Lathers freely in any water; rinses out perfectly with one rinsing, and dries quickly.

Thomas' Special Formula Shampoo

The most economical, practical and effective shampoo for the family. Especially recommended by the world's leading hair and scalp specialists for permanently waved hair, because it will not attack the chemical compound used in the permanent waving process. Use this shampoo and save your permanent wave for a much longer period. Make a five-minute test of this marvelous shampoo. You will pronounce it the best you ever used.

If your hair is falling out, we recommend the use of Thomas' Special Formula for Falling Hair—a positive relief for dandruff and other conditions inducing baldness. Use it in connection with the Thomas' Shampoo.

Thomas' Special Formula for Falling Hair

As different from the ordinary run of "hair dopes" as day and night. Contains no alcohol, nor other ingredient harmful to hair or scalp. It is highly antiseptic, checking and eliminating all conditions which destroy the life of the hair. Stimulates the dying hair roots to healthful activity. Restores luster and suppleness to dry, brittle, dead-looking hair. It is real hair insurance.

Two Tables of Bridge Now the Social Custom

Consequently We Buy Flat Silverware Now in Sets of Eight Rather Than by the Half Dozens.

SO RECENTLY that it seems only yesterday, formal or informal afternoon calls formed midday's contact with her social world. Three or four guests at most were an afternoon's quota. Today the afternoon's calling list is gone. Now the "afternoon at home" has come to be the "afternoon at bridge."

Today two tables of bridge is the smartest note in entertaining—not only the correct social usage, but the thing one's friends expect—the thing correct social usage demands. And correct social usage is a law before which every woman humbly bows—no woman who cares will knowingly violate its hard and fast decrees.

Not only must one bridge, but one must bridge correctly—so reads the unbending social code. Two tables of bridge—eight to be entertained—eight at luncheon—eight at cards—eight at tea. What far-reaching changes that has wrought!

First the silverware—sixes of each wouldn't do—not for luncheon for eight. An enterprising silverware manufacturer saw the change coming—and met it with pieces of eight—eight of each. Then followed the makers of china—the makers of fine table linen—and the art of "rights" was born.

But "rights" have not come merely to give correct service at an afternoon or evening at cards. The idea is growing so fast in popularity because it so perfectly supplies the rounded out silverware needs of the average family—with silver to spare for the unexpected guest.

How many members are there in the average-sized family? The census and all accepted estimates place the number at four.

Formerly the mistress of this average-sized family was content with the flat silverware she actually needed to set the table appropriately at breakfast, luncheon and dinner, which, at a minimum consisted of:

10 teaspoons.
8 dessert spoons, or as a substitute 8 round-bowl soup spoons.

10 knives.
8 dinner forks.

1 sugar shell, or 1 sugar tong, or both.
1 butter knife.

It will be noted that in this list there is no mention of the so-called fancy pieces, or serving pieces. But the young hostess is most certain to be interested in serving the courses of her meals and luncheons appropriately and well. Thus she will find pieces like individual salad forks and after-dinner coffee spoons almost as indispensable as teaspoons or knives or forks.

For the complete service of all meals and for entertaining at bridge luncheons she will find the following pieces necessary:

8 dinner forks.
8 dinner knives.
1 sugar shell, or 1 sugar tong, or both.
1 butter knife.

The tomato server is a decorative piece that adds considerably to the table appointments and is very useful.

The need for ladles is obvious. Bouillon, after-dinner coffee, and iced tea spoons must also be considered necessities for the well-appointed table.

The olive spoon, pickle fork, jelly server, nut cracker and picks and the cheese server are auxiliaries that the particular housewife will appreciate. Carving sets are, of course, a primary requirement.

Whatever the size of the family and however modest or pretentious their mode of life, having enough silverware contributes immensely to the serenity so important at mealtime.

The essence of good entertaining, too, depends as much upon having the right kind of pieces as upon any other one factor. Though many of the fancy and serving pieces are usually taken for granted, their part in the smoothness of the meal is very real.

The ideal hostess has a table service that will stand the strain of every social occasion.

The ideal hostess has a table service that will stand the strain of every social occasion.

Whatever the size of the family and however modest or pretentious their mode of life, having enough silverware contributes immensely to the serenity so important at mealtime.

The essence of good entertaining, too, depends as much upon having the right kind of pieces as upon any other one factor. Though many of the fancy and serving pieces are usually taken for granted, their part in the smoothness of the meal is very real.

VARIETY OFFERED IN BAKED APPLES

Insistent Demand Has Evolved Many Variations of This Popular Dainty.

WE are marking "Apple Week" from Oct. 30 to Nov. 6, and we truly have cause for celebration. The apple is one of man's best friends as far as food value is concerned. There should be no waste for us to indulge freely our taste for eating apples. The fruit lends itself to cookery and many delicious desserts have apples for the basic article.

Baked apples, now that teamsters have become such a rare commodity, are in the front in cookery for almost every important teamster has evolved its own certain recipe for baking apples. Here are several of the most popular types of baked apples and the recipes for making them.

Caramel Praline Apples.

Peel and core six apples. Make syrup of one cup sugar and two cups hot water. Pour over apples in casserole, cover, bake until tender in oven. Meanwhile, heat one-half cup sugar and two cups blanched chopped almonds in saucepan over low fire; stir constantly until sugar becomes a yellow syrup. Put this mixture in apples, then remove apples from casserole and pour over the remaining syrup apples were cooked in. Serve very cold with or without whipped cream.

Apples Italian Style.

Core and bake firm well-flavored apples. Remove from the oven and fill cavities with cottage cheese mixed to a smooth paste with cream. Put in a cold place until thoroughly chilled. Serve very cold.

Stuffed Apples.

Core firm, full-flavored apples, and place them in an oiled tin for baking. In the center of each one place a few seeded raisins, a teaspoon of maple or corn syrup and a third of a banana. Bake until the apples are tender.

Dried Fruits Contain Many Essential Minerals

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator from New York.

THERE are many modern methods for preserving and drying fruits. But in spite of the progressive tendencies of the age, there are some old-fashioned prepared fruits which hold and will continue to retain their established popularity.

Among them we find raisins, dried currants, citron, dates and prunes. The citron, currants and raisins were found in every kitchen in the early days. In company with modern companions, they are found there today.

The citron is the grandfather of the popular citrus fruits. The citron tree looks like a lemon tree. The fruit has a much thicker rind than the lemon or orange and is well suited for making the candied fruit.

In the United States citron is grown. It grows and looks like a watermelon and is used in making preserves. But this is different from the citron from which the commercial article is made. The citron grown on trees extensively cultivated for the purpose in Persia, China, Spain, Italy, Greece and California.

The fruit is cut up and packed in barrels of brine for a month or two. Then it is boiled and set to soak in water somewhat sweetened. From this solution it goes into a sweeter one and so on until it is ready to be boiled in a heavy syrup. Then it is placed in racks in a hot oven till it dries and crystallizes.

In making raisins several varieties of grapes are used. Muscatels are raisins dried on the vines. Varieties are raisins dipped in a flavored solution and coated with olive oil. Sultanias are the little seedless raisins.

We used to depend on the Old World for raisins, but California is developing a raisin industry. Varieties are raisins dipped in a flavored solution and coated with olive oil. Sultanias are the little seedless raisins.

These fruits are used in making puddings and cakes. They are not confections merely. They have food value and undoubtedly contribute to the body certain minerals which are essential to health.

Raisins contain a certain percentage of iron. The cellulose or fiber contents of the raisin and currant is an important addition to the diet.

I can think of no more appealing dessert than rice pudding, made of unpolished rice, filled with raisins and served with cream or hard sauce. Such a dish contributes much to the food substances required for the repair and maintenance of the body.

(Copyright, 1926.)

Baked Apples.

Wash, core and pare choice tart apples. Fill the cavities with stoned dates. Bake until tender, basting two or three times with a little hot sugar syrup. Serve cold with cream.

Date Stuffing.

Cover a pound of dates with boiling water. Stir with a silver fork, skim from the water and place in the oven for three or four minutes to dry off. Cut each date in two pieces and remove stones.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Far-Reaching Advantages
Low the Systematic Arrangement of Family Meals

FOUR hot cooked cereals make it seem reasonable to have one of the ready prepared cereals that figure so prominently in our summer menus. These are also admirable to introduce in the winter breakfasts.

Some of these, while more expensive than cereal cooked at home, have a place all their own because of their composition, especially digestible form. What on the subject remember that cooked corn meal mush is especially good cold cereal. It has a generous proportion of the rich oil which adds to the warmth-giving properties of the starch as represented in varieties of cereal.

Another winter touch is the appearance of pork tenderloin. This is a toothsome meat, a fairly general favorite, but it is for weather consumption only, then only by the growings in the family.

In the matter of dessert, dry dish fruit pies solve one problem of the housekeeper who must for any reason consider digestion. The simplicity of composition makes these deep dish pies especially suitable for children and those who must not eat too much. The crust of these pies may be made of a rather baking powder biscuit dough, and going away with the excess of fat as it appears in conventional pastry.

There are two vegetable dishes this week, but if the housewife chooses she may change one of the meat dinners for a third composed entirely of vegetables.

HOLDING ITS OWN, APPLE PIE

Stop Worrying Over Something Different and Bake an Apple Pie.

The passage of the years has failed to lessen the popularity of apple pie. A succession of new desserts, hot, cold, satisfying and artistic, have appeared, from time to time, but they have failed to put the old-fashioned apple pie on the scrap heap.

In fact, wherever civilized beings cultivate the art of cooking, you will find that apple pie, in some form or other, is sure to be numbered among the popular dishes on the menu.

Apple pies differ little fundamentally; some recipes call for raw fruit, others call for "cooked" fruit. Here are several popular recipes for the delicacy:

Apple Custard Pie.

Fill a deep pie pan with pastry. For the filling use two cups of strained stewed apples, three-fourths cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two tablespoons soft butter, three egg yolks and two egg whites.

To strain stewed apples add sugar, salt, nutmeg, soft butter and beaten egg yolks; mix thoroughly and turn into well-lined pie plate. Bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. Cover with meringue made by beating egg whites until frothy, adding one-quarter teaspoon baking powder and beating until stiff, then folding in four tablespoons sugar. Put in a hot oven to brown.

Plain Apple Pie.

Line deep pie pan with pastry. For the filling use six apples, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, the same quantity mace, one tablespoon butter. Cut apples fine. Sift sugar, salt and spice and stir well. Mix thoroughly with apples. Turn into pie pan lined with crust. Dot with small pieces of butter or fat. Put on top crust, pushing it toward the center and pressing off edges. Bake in a moderate oven 50 minutes.

Dutch Apple Pie.

To make this popular pie use one and one-half cups flour, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half cup shortening, four to six tablespoons water.

For Filling.

Eight apples, one cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon mace, cinnamon, salt and cloves and four tablespoons butter. Sift together flour and salt; cut in shortening with two knives. Add water, cutting dough with a knife. Toss on floured board, pat, roll out and fit to pie plate. Wash, dry and cut apples in eighths. Fill pie plate with apples. Sprinkle with sugar sifted with salt and spices and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven 50 minutes.

NEW SANDWICH HINTS

New Ideas for Dressing Up Familiar Sandwiches.

Have you tried olive and bacon sandwiches? Mix together one-half cup olives chopped, one-half cup chopped cooked bacon. Moisten well with salad dressing, and spread between slices of whole wheat bread garnished with a leaf of lettuce.

A triumph in sandwiches is to be attained by mixing several tablespoons of sweet pickles, chopped, with ground ham and mayonnaise dressing. Spread this filling on either white or graham bread.

Put the cold roast left from dinner through the food chopper. Moisten it well with ketchup, and spread between slices of buttered bread for next day's lunch; or roll discolored dough thin, cut with large-size cutter, spread half of each round with the meat and ketchup mixtures, fold over, and bake in hot oven. Serve hot or cold.

Mustard improves almost any sandwich, but here is a special suggestion for its use: Place a slice of corned beef spread with mustard on lightly buttered bread. Cover again with bread, mustard and a slice of corned beef. Place third piece of bread on top, press together, and cut in squares, garnishing the top of each sandwich with a small sprig of parsley.

Stone and coarsely chop olives. Mix with an equal quantity of chopped English walnuts, and enough salad dressing to moisten. Spread between dainty slices of Dainty "open-face" sandwiches to serve with tea may be made in the following way: Cut rounds of thinly sliced white and graham bread. Spread with cream cheese mixed with one-half the quantity of apple butter. Place a walnut meat on top of each.

Mock Cherry Pie.

Take one and one-half cups of cranberries, one cup raisins, one cup sugar, one-half cup water, butter size of walnut, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon vanilla and one-half teaspoon salt. Cut cranberries in half. Add raisins seeded and chopped. Add vanilla and other ingredients. Line a deep pie plate with pastry; turn the filling into this. Dot with butter, cover with upper crust. Press the edges closely together and bake in moderate oven 50 minutes.

PLEASE PASS THE CRANBERRIES

The Season for This Healthful, Appetizing Fruit Has Been Extended.

You will use cranberries a lot this season. Try putting your cranberry moulded jelly in shallow cake pans and cut in fancy forms to use for salads or garnishes.

Make cranberry sauce and cream cheese sandwiches for the Sunday night tea. These should be made 50-50 cheese and cranberry sauce. Put cranberries in your muffins for breakfast and in pop-overs for luncheon or for dessert.

Strawberry sauce is made with butter, sugar and strawberries. Try cranberry sauce made the same way, using cranberries.

Pork and Apples.
A good way to serve pork chops and apple sauce is to begin by browning the chops on a frying pan. Then place in a casserole, pouring over the liquid obtained by pouring a little boiling water into the pan in which the chops were browned. There should be just enough liquid to moisten the bottom of the casserole. Now place a layer of several inches of fresh sliced apples. Cover the casserole and let cook in a good oven for an hour or more.

FOOD

Banana Delmonica.

Scald two cups of milk in a double-boiler; sift one-third of a cup of cornstarch and a half teaspoonful of salt with one-fourth of a cup of sugar, two or three times, then stir into the hot milk. Continue to stir until the mixture thickens. Then cover and let cook 15 minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and beat again, then stir into the hot pudding. Remove the skin and slice three or four bananas into a pudding dish, squeeze over them the juice of a lemon, then pour on the hot pudding. Beat the whites of two eggs very light, beat in four level tablespoonfuls of sugar and spread over the pudding. Dredge with granulated sugar and bake in a very slow oven until the meringue is delicately colored. It should take 10 to 15 minutes. Color the meringue. This is a delicious when served hot.

MASHED POTATOES ATTRACTIVELY USED

Make a Delicious Dish for Tomorrow's Dinner of These Left-Overs.

What housewife does not have mashed potatoes left over after a meal? The easiest way to use these left-overs is to make potato cakes out of them. But there are other ways besides the "easiest way" and the appended recipes give directions for some of the other ways.

Casserole Potatoes.
In a well-greased baking dish put a layer of mashed potatoes, with a sprinkle of chopped onion, green pepper, pimento, salt and pepper. Repeat in layers until all ingredients are used; then over top sprinkle buttered bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

Volcano Potatoes.
Make potato cones about three inches high and place in a greased Pyrex pie plate. In the top of each potato cone make a narrow, deep indentation. Mix a tablespoon of grated cheese with a little salt and enough paprika to color it, quite red, and fill each potato cone with this mixture. Sprinkle more cheese over the cones and place in a hot oven until cheese melts and covers the sides of the cones. If preferred, the potatoes may be made into one large volcano.

Potato Dish.
To serve potato cakes or balls made from the leftover mashed potatoes every time you have company for dinner, soon becomes an old story and almost a tradition in some homes; so next time try the following and see if your family isn't well pleased with the change.

To the mashed potato add a little ground or chopped meat which has been left from the previous day—an egg, small amount of milk, one-half teaspoon of baking powder. By separating the egg, adding the yolk to the potatoes and folding in the stiffly beaten white at the last, you will have a lighter product. Pour into a well-greased baking dish, cover top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until crumbs are brown and it is firm.

Potato Souffle.
Beat two cups mashed potatoes until very light and fluffy; add butter, eggs well beaten, milk, salt and pepper. Turn into greased baking dish and bake in moderate oven until firm.

Duchesse Potatoes.
Take a pint of mashed potatoes and mix them with the yolk of one egg, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter or other shortening and the same amount of cream or rich milk. Turn the mixture on a paste try board and press it flat and smooth. With a sharp knife cut the potato paste into squares of a uniform size. Remove the squares with a pancake turner to a greased baking sheet. Set in the oven, sprinkle when hot with grated cheese and bake a delicate brown.

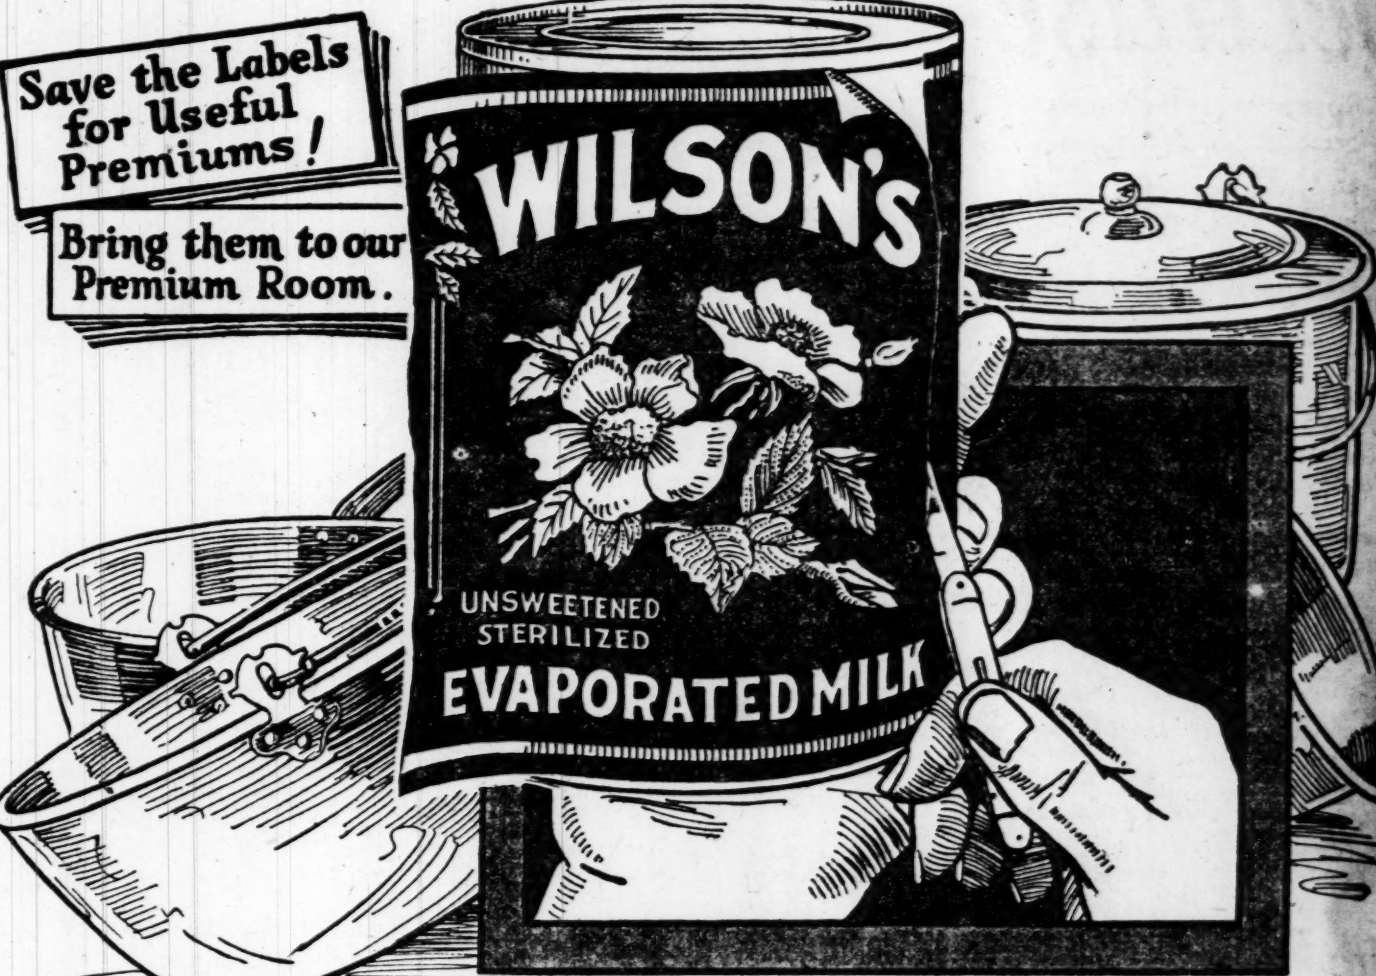

Blushing Apples.
Blushing apples are a modern version of baked apples. To make them take six red apples, one and one-half cups sugar, one and one-half cups water and whipped cream. Core the apples. Cook in syrup made of sugar and water, turning so that they will cook evenly until they are tender. Carefully remove the skin, scraping the red pulp from it and pasting on the sides of the apple. Put the apples in a serving dish. Reduce the syrup to one cup, and add the grated rind and juice of one orange, the juice of one lemon and, if desired, nuts, candied orange-peel or raisins. Pour syrup over apples and serve with whipped cream.

Half Moons.
Use sponge, plain cake or gold cake recipe. Bake in shallow layers. Cut in half moons with half moon cutter, or by placing the round cutter only half way on the layer after the first piece has been cut. Cover pieces with white icing and decorate with wavy lines made by putting chocolate icing through pastry tube and then serve on a dark plate.

Highly flavored "picante"! A new thrill awaits you in Libby's Chili Con Carne. Chili peppers, plump beans and tender beef expertly mixed according to a famous recipe. At your grocer's PURE, fresh milk in convenient cans instead of bottles—that is Wilson's Milk. It is double-rich, however, because a part of the water is evaporated from the fresh dairy milk before it is sealed and sterilized to be sold under the Wilson name. Nothing added—only water taken away. Try Wilson's Milk and learn how it differs from other evaporated milks.

A FULL QUART OF RICHNESS in Each Large Wilson's Can

Because it is double-rich you may dilute a large can of Wilson's Milk with an equal amount of water and you will have a full quart of whole milk that is richer than the legal standard. Diluted in this proportion Wilson's serves every milk need—economically. And for all cream needs you use the double-rich Wilson's Milk just as it comes from the can—and save half the cost of cream.

1 cup Wilson's Milk (diluted)—3 tablespoons butter—2 tablespoons flour—½ teaspoon salt ¼ teaspoon pepper—4 to 6 eggs.

Cream together the flour, butter and seasonings. Add the milk and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture is thick and smooth. Pour into a shallow baking dish. Break the eggs into the sauce, being careful not to break the yolks. Sprinkle bread crumbs over the top, and place in a moderate oven until eggs are firm.

MY LIFE AND FIGHTING CAREER

—By Gene Tunney, New Heavyweight Champion

Walked New York Streets With His Pockets Empty, Looking for Job After War

Battle Against Odds Built Up Mind and Body, He Believes—Tells of Meeting O'Dowd Who Was Shocked by Politeness of Gene's Language.

By Gene Tunney
World's Heavyweight Champion.

CHAPTER XII
MOST of the men who were early in forecasting my rise to the heavyweight championship have traveled right along with me. It was almost instinctive with me to choose my friends, my books and my relaxations with scrupulous care. Once selected, I made it a point to try to keep my friendships in repair.

Among the many men who have been my mentors there are three who contributed no little to the molding of my character. They are William McCabe, Danny Dunn and James Bronson. Bill and Danny were athletic directors of the Knights of Columbus during the war and saw me in some of my numerous interbattalion contests. After I had won the light heavyweight championship of the A. E. F., Dan said to me:

"Make the heavyweight championship of the world your goal. You are going to become a great fighter. Live a decent life. Associate with decent people. Be fixed in your purpose and some day you will please me mightily by defeating the champion."

McCabe was in my corner the night I defeated Dempsey. So also was Jimmy Bronson, one of the ablest of fight advisers. Jimmy was in charge of all the boxing in the army. I received 100 francs for a bout arranged by Jimmy, that against Bob Pierce at the Cirque d'Paris. It was during the bouts at the Cirque that I first learned how to condition myself.

Meeting Sergt. O'Dowd.

HERE'S a story that always struck me funny:

When cases were arranged for the Pershing Stadium in Paris the pick of the Expeditionary Force's athletes were billed to compete. I was selected as a contestant in the light heavyweight tourney and was sent to Lazzare to train. Sergt. Mike O'Dowd, then middleweight champion of the world, was scheduled as my conditioner. I knew next to nothing about training, aside from being careful with my diet. I was green and had many boxing faults. Consequently, I was greatly pleased when I learned that the middleweight champion was to be my supervisor.

Mike and I didn't get along any too well. For some reason Mike took an early and marked dislike to me. He paid me scant attention, the complete severance of our relations, however, occurred one day when he asked me a question and I replied:

"Absolutely."

Mike seemed amazed. He shouted at me:

"What was that you said?"

"I said 'absolutely,'" I repeated.

That was much too much for Mike. Addressing no one in particular and the whole A. E. F. in general, Mike gave a despairing gesture and piped:

"Oh, what the —! I give up! 'I'm through. This guy will never make a fighter. How could he? He says 'absolutely.' Imagine a fighter saying 'absolutely.'"

Shortly before the Dempsey fight, Jimmy Bronson brought to my Stroudsburg camp a few clippings of the movies of a bout I had with Ted Janieton, of Milwaukee, in which bout I won the 175-pound championship of the A. E. F. In the proper place, I shall try to tell of the help I had from Bronson all through my training since.

Jimmy was among other loyal friends, one of my best boosters in 1913, when I trudged the street looking for employment—just an ex-soldier with pockets as empty as my stomach. Through that October and then through rainy, snowy, cold November, I sought resolutely for work and finally decided that there wasn't a job in New York City. And all that time I never occurred to me that I might, through boxing, capitalize the slender frame of having become champion of the A. E. F. Since then, you may be sure, I have become accustomed to seeing fame turned into money.

Gene's Idea of Manhood.

NOW that fame and fortune are about to smile on me, I must confess that I am glad I went through the University of Hard Knocks. If I were given the power to turn back the leaves of the years and permitted to make a change here and there, I doubt if I would erase or amend any of it. For now I can see that there was a reason for it all and that I could not have succeeded had I been petted, pampered and given every comfort for the mere asking.

The toll, the effort, the continual grind and the battle against seeming odds, all contributed to the upbuilding of my mind and my body. I always had thirsted for a college education. When I found that it would be impossible for me to continue in school, I turned to life itself as my textbook and it is true that I have learned only a little of the worth while things of life, but that little I have tried to learn well. I believe that a heavyweight champion, if he is at all deserving of the events of the day has a marvelous opportunity for a liberal education. Of course, everyone can't be a champion in the ring, and many persons might not want to be a boxing champion, but I do believe that here in this remarkable country each man has an opportunity to be a champion at something which may make for the happiness of our fellow men.

Try not to be knocked down, no matter what your name, but if you are toppled over, smile, get up, come back for more. That's my idea of real manhood in action.

Wilson's Pointer Shines in Trials

Oxford Brookside Still in the Hunt, Though Halworthy Is Favored for Title.

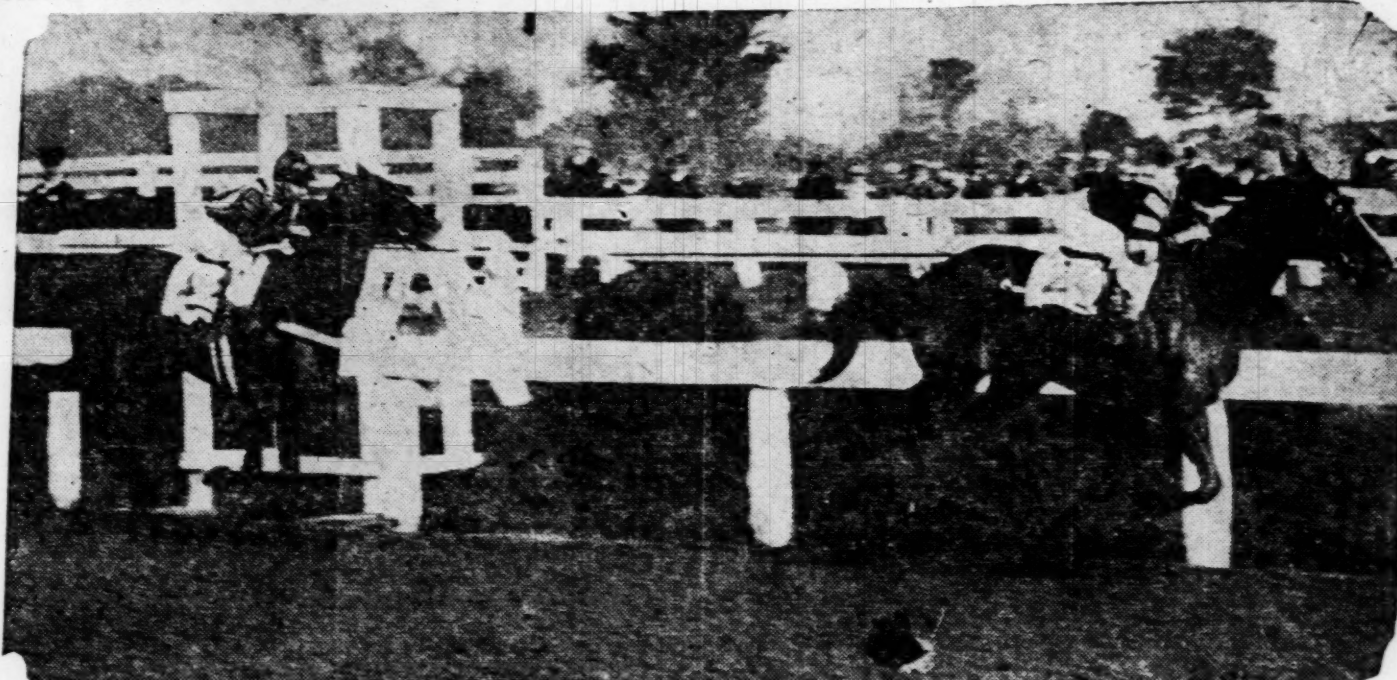

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPARTA, Ill., Nov. 5.—With ten more dogs still to run their preliminary heats in the all-age stake of the Independent Bird Dog trials, present indications point to the setter, Halworthy as the winner of the stake.

Halworthy is owned by Dr. T. F. Becherovich of Sylvania, Mich., and is now being handled by C. B. Black of Brownsville, Tenn. Never in his career has he run a race as he did here yesterday. His work on game was clean and his two bays fine stand out as a mark for the 24 other competitors which they are not likely to beat, although this is not impossible.

Other dogs that ran well are the setter, Elenco, Montrose, owned by F. H. Chaffield of Cincinnati and the two pointers, Oxford Brookside, owned by S. G. Wilson Jr. of St. Louis, and Comanche Dukes of Birmingham, Ala.

Crusader, Champion of the Year, Winning Riggs Handicap

Crusader, 3-year-old-son of Man-o-War, and champion race horse of the year, gave further proof of his right to that title last Saturday in winning the Riggs Handicap at Pimlico, Md. The Glen Riddle colt added $2,450 to his owner's pocket when he got home in front over the mile-and-a-half course. Another son of Man-o-War, Mars, finished second, two lengths behind Crusader. Photo shows the winner and Mars at the finish.

Seven Knockouts In Nine Bouts on Amateur Card

Merz Gains Decision Over Meyer in South Broadway Feature.

The boys who battle for medals and gold watches furnished seven knockouts in nine bouts last night in the South Broadway Athletic Club's amateur boxing program. All seven of the preliminaries ended in "kitts," terminating before the third round.

Frank Merz and Al Meyer put on a stirring three-round featherweight battle with Merz winning the judges' decision after a busy nine minutes. Merz was floored for the count of five in the second round, but rallied in the third to give the better display of boxing.

Cliff Doetzel won the judges' decision in the other special affair over Ray Nelson. Doetzel, of the South Broadway Club, won the most spectacular knockout in his match with Monroe Nelson of the East Side Knights of Columbus.

Keeney was dropped twice in the second round by Nelson, on one occasion losing two teeth, but he rushed back in the third to lay Nelson low two times. The second time it happened Nelson stayed low.

WOMEN AMATEURS FIND BUSINESS MIXES WELL WITH SPORT ACTIVITY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Women athletes find that business and amateur sport mix well. Miss Blanche Gema, who holds the women's national tennis doubles championship with Elizabeth Ryan, has joined the staff of a New York bank. Prior to her marriage, Alexa Stirling Fraser combined bond selling with golf.

Before turning to professional tennis, Mary Browne wrote about tennis and golf for magazines. Marion Hollis, former golf champion, has been quite successful in real estate.

WELSH GIRL DIES OF SOCCER INJURY

CARDIFF, Wales, Nov. 5.—Miss Z. Richards, who broke a leg while playing in a soccer match on Tuesday, died late last night from shock. She was a member of the Glamorgan football league.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Thumbs Down.

CHARLEY ROSENBERG, discredited in New York, Illinois and states with affiliated boxing commissions, will apply for reinstatement at New York, that he may fight at Madison Square Garden against Bushy Graham for the bantam title, Jan. 7.

Madison Square Garden officials make the most of which will not mend matters much, James Farley of the New York commission loves Madison Garden promoters as a taxi driver loves a flat tire.

Following on the heels of Tex Rickard's slap when he took Dempsey and Tunney to Philadelphia, the new affront can only result in a refusal by Chairman Farley to reinstate Rosenberg.

If I ought to be "thumbs down," Rosenberg was without excuse for running out on Buddy Taylor. If commissions are ever to mean anything now is the time for them to be MEAN. A national disbarment of Rosenbergs and other fighters sit up and beg.

Delaney vs. Dempsey.

ONLY a short time ago the suggestion of a Delaney-Dempsey match would have aroused laughter. Delaney would have been considered out of the question, as an opponent for the hard-punching Dempsey. Since Tunney's coming, however, the former King of the Killers, Jack's stock has cheapened. He looked so rank in his match with Tunney that many are now questioning if Dempsey really was a Greatist of the Great, as he was considered for several years.

This is not the usual case of rodents deserting the sinking ship of war. There is some foundation for such an opinion based on a scrutiny of Dempsey's performances.

The records seem to show that every good man he faced, that is, every good BOXER, gave Dempsey a bad evening.

Willie Welsh, a mere base drum beater, roly-poly Willie who threw a lot of gloves with nothing back of them, evaded Dempsey in five fights and gained two official decisions over the champion.

Billy Miske, before he was overtaken by disease, stood off Dempsey in 10 and six-round fights.

Bill Brennan lasted 12 rounds.

NEVERS TO DISTRIBUTE AUTOGRAPHED FOOTBALL

Ernie Nevers who won fame as a college football player and baseball pitcher and who was a member of the Browns during last season will appear at Lew's State Theater at 9 o'clock tonight when he will distribute several dozen miniature footballs with his own autograph.

As captain and star player of the St. Paul Browns, professional football aggregation Nevers comes to St. Louis to engage in a gridiron battle with the St. Louis Blues at Sportsman's Park tomorrow afternoon.

Nevers, said by experts to be one of the mainstays of the Browns' star-stuffed next year, is making his first appearance on the football field in St. Louis Saturday and his first stage engagement at Lew's State.

Signed to a contract for the Browns by George Siler, Nevers obtained one of the 100 baseball season Nevers left the club and transferred to St. Paul, where he organized the Eskimos, a football team which has made a good showing in the professional football field this fall.

Vasquez Outpoints O'Dowd.

ATHLETICS WOULD CUT WOMEN'S SMOKING, SAYS KANSAS DIRECTOR

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 5.—Competitive athletics would prove effective in discouraging the increasing use of cigarettes by college women, in the opinion of Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas.

"College men playing on varsity teams are using less cigarettes than formerly," Dr. Allen declared in an address to Kansas teachers here. This condition, he believes, because educators have failed to interest young women in activities that demand a standard of physical training such as is maintained by men athletes.

Dr. Allen explained that he would not advocate extensive intercollegiate athletics for women necessarily, but would advise a better defined policy than exists in many colleges and universities. He added, however, that habits of young women of this age apparently were not worse than those of other generations.

POCKET BILLIARDS MEET OPENS TOMORROW
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—An exodus of billiard stars is due today, their destination being Philadelphia, where the world's pocket billiard championship will open at the Elks Club tomorrow. Those in the party will include Frank Taberski and Ralph Greenleaf, present and past champions. Charles Harmon, winner of the recent New York state championship; Tom Hueston, runner-up in that tournament; Erwin Rudolph, Andrew St. Jean and Arthur Woods.

At that time Dempsey was really the most formidable fighter the writer has ever seen. The Jack Delaneys of today would have been swept aside quickly.

It is still probable that Dempsey, if he fought his way back into condition with four or five contests, could take care of all of them, with the possible exception of Tunney.

A tramp in the rain, then—lame mouse

WAS SO STIFF AND SORE HE COULD HARDLY BEND

As good as new next morning after simple home treatment

After tramping around all day with wet feet while out gunning, a Philadelphia sportsman found himself so stiff and lame he could hardly bend. "I went to work but had to come home," he writes. "I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. I was as good as new next morning, thanks to the quick and sure action of Sloan's."

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It helps the body to throw off the cause of the pain.

Apply a little lightly, without rubbing. Right away the stiffness and pain ease up, as fresh healing blood is sent to the sore spots.

Get a bottle of Sloan's today and have it on hand for the first emergency. All druggists—35 cents.

Anybody's Game, Zuppke's Tag For Chicago Contest

Purdue Will Play Northwestern Tomorrow; Wisconsin Meets Michigan at Ann Arbor.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Four Western Conference football teams pitched their tents today on the fields which tomorrow promise the closest battles the Big Ten has seen this fall.

The label of "anybody's game," given the Illinois-Chicago encounter by Zuppke of the Illini, appeared generally appropriate for the day, and suggestive of complications in the 1926 title fight.

"We will be glad to win by the smallest score," the Illinois coach declared, although the return of Captain Kassel and D'Ambrasio to the ends increased Illinois' chances of downing Chicago. The reappearance in the lineup of several good backs bolstered hopes among the battered Maroons, however. J. Phelan of Purdue and Thistlewaite of Northwestern had nothing whatever to say about their encounter at Evanston, from which one of the eleven undefeated in the conference is expected to emerge a title challenger. Both teams are at top form.

Michigan Favored to Win.
At Iowa City it's a case of two teams that have demonstrated scoring ability but been comparatively weak on defense, with the prospect of a dashing fight between Iowa's attack behind Cowboy Kutch and the mauling Minnesota charge which centers about Joesting.

Wisconsin trekked to Ann Arbor, a favorite to suffer at the hands of a Michigan team desirous of regaining the prestige lost by last week's defeat at the hands of Navy. Michigan is given a better chance by far, but Wisconsin's game has developed speedily during the week. Undaunted by a string of defeats for his Indiana youngsters, Pat Page brought three full teams to Notre Dame, where the non-conference game is a conditioner for the crew Rockne will hurl against Army at New York a week hence.

Ohio likewise bought railroad tickets, but not to fill a playing engagement. Will have elected to give his team a rest in preparation for their try at Michigan and the Big Ten title on Nov. 13.

Corduroy Tires on Credit
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—An exodus of billiard stars is due today, their destination being Philadelphia, where the world's pocket billiard championship will open at the Elks Club tomorrow. Those in the party will include Frank Taberski and Ralph Greenleaf, present and past champions. Charles Harmon, winner of the recent New York state championship; Tom Hueston, runner-up in that tournament; Erwin Rudolph, Andrew St. Jean and Arthur Woods.

At that time Dempsey was really the most formidable fighter the writer has ever seen. The Jack Delaneys of today would have been swept aside quickly.

It is still probable that Dempsey, if he fought his way back into condition with four or five contests, could take care of all of them, with the possible exception of Tunney.

Jack has lost something beyond recall, of course. But a conscientious preparation could restore much of his greatness of other days.

After tramping around all day with wet feet while out gunning, a Philadelphia sportsman found himself so stiff and lame he could hardly bend. "I went to work but had to come home," he writes. "I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. I was as good as new next morning, thanks to the quick and sure action of Sloan's."

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It helps the body to throw off the cause of the pain.

Apply a little lightly, without rubbing. Right away the stiffness and pain ease up, as fresh healing blood is sent to the sore spots.

PRESIDENT AUTOGRAPHED BALL FOR SERVICE CONTEST ON COAST

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—President Coolidge yesterday autographed a football that will be used in the annual service game on the Pacific Coast in the stadium at Berkeley, Cal., on Armistice day. The game will be played between teams of the Ninth Army Corps Area and Naval Vessels on the west coast.

Stone Beats Gema.

By the Associated Press.
PASSAIC, N. J., Nov. 5.—Ad Gema, of Paterson, fighting marine, won a technical knockout last night over George Gema, Philadelphia, by weight, in the sixth round of a 10-round bout. Referee McCoy threw the bout to save Gema from further punishment. Gema weighed 135 and Stone 175.

ST. LOUIS
POST-DISPATCH.[illegible]

IT'S TIME TO STOP LYING ABOUT COAL STRIKE IN BRITAIN

So Says D. A. Brenner, Secretary of Engineers' Association, Who Calls Tieup "Catastrophic."

ERASE ALL DEBTS
FIRST, HE ARGUES

Then Let Intelligent Men of Europe and America Put Heads Together and Get Down to Hardpan.

(This is another of a series of articles on economic conditions in Great Britain and the continent.)
By EDWARD PRICE BELL, Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—"We want the coal strike settled, but we want it settled right," said D. A. Brenner, O. B. E., director of the British Engineers' Association, which represents an industry consuming about 10,000,000 tons of coal a year.

"Unemployment has been almost doubled by the coal stoppage, and its effects upon costs have converted many prospective profitable orders into losses."

"It is imperative that we dig down to hardpan as a basis for all our industries, and particularly for the great fundamental industry of coal production."

Brenner declares that "it is high time we had an end of lying about the condition of British industry." He considers this condition no bad as to require the term "catastrophic."

"Let the intelligent men of America and Europe put their heads together," he says. "Let them be honest with one another. And let them brush away all camouflage and tell their peoples what the international economic situation really demands."

Wipe Out Debts, He Says.
"It demands, for one thing, the wiping out of unproductive debts. These debts never can be a source of prosperity to anybody. The fact is known to every economist in the world. It is known to every statesman worthy of the name. It is admitted freely in private conversation wherever competent men discuss the subject. Why, then, not make a clean breast of the matter? Why treat great democratic peoples as if they were children?"

"Germany cannot continue indefinitely the huge payments contemplated by the Dawes plan. It is economically impracticable and undesirable that Germany should occupy world markets on the gigantic and abnormal scale necessitated by the Dawes payments plus Germany's irreducible living requirements."

"When a British citizen advocates a riddance of debts that created nothing to earn interest upon them, he is by no means put out of court on the ground that he speaks in self-interest. Great Britain's lendings for the war substantially exceeded her borrowings."

"We, as well as the United States, could have argued for the principle of the sanctity of international obligations, but our judgment was against such a course on both moral and economic grounds. If we try to collect from our debtors what we must pay, it is only because our industrial position and our excessive and unequal taxation and rating constrain us."

Must Save Industries.
"Political importance of the first order, as well as basic economic importance, attaches to British engineering, according to Brenner. "Engineering," says he, "supports the entire material structure of our civilization. There can be no doubt whatever that the decay of our iron and steel, shipbuilding and engineering industries, all inexorably united, would cause the dissolution of the British empire."

"None of these industries is prospering today. All are far below their prewar state, and even if this state were restored, the situation would be unsatisfactory, absolutely and relatively, because of our increased population, our enormously increased financial burdens and the higher standard of living of the masses."

"Our selling prices must be cut. Deeper cuts offer no chance for such cutting. Cutting profits offers no chance, either, for these already are too small or nonexistent. Lower costs of production and distribution are the only way out."

"Such economies we should seek to realize without regard to foreign competition, for increased sales and profits are in themselves desirable things. But foreign competition and profoundly altered world conditions confront us. We must have cheaper production and distribution costs, better salesmanship, the utmost skill and energy in our manufacturing and export trade."

"Criticism of the employing class is a feature of Brenner's oral and written expressions concerning the whole industrial position of his country."

Morbid Unrest All Wrong.
"We have deep unrest," he remarks. "Unrest is all right, it is healthy; it is all wrong when morbid, and with us at present it is morbid.

"Reason among our workers is impaired and their sense of responsibility weakened.
"Our employers, with all their advantages of heredity, education and specialized experience, have been remiss in the duty of educating our people in the essentials of political economy.
"Capitalism stands in need of an energetic and magnificent defense. Its enemies, vain dreamers, have been allowed far, far too many years to range almost unmoled over the field of economic controversy. They should be brought to action. Their fallacies should be exposed. Only the employing class can do this. They can do it by organization. Our delicate and complicated machinery of wealth production is threatened with disruption."

"As popular opinion runs today, British employers excite neither fear nor respect, much less sympathy."

"Three-cornered duels among trade unions, employers and governments must cease. Class politics, breeding and feeding upon industrial unrest, must be beaten down. Outright revolution must be crushed. Labor demands for hours and wages outside the realm of economic practicality must be shown up as fraught with ruin for all classes."

Denounces Bullying Tactics.
"Strikes, lockouts, bullying pickets, restricted production, opposition to payment by results, wasteful restriction of overtime, insecurity of capital, discouragement of investment in industry, discouragement of enterprise, underproduction and overconsumption of values—these are some of the many evils we must remedy by education before we can hope to present industrial statistics worthy of the manufacturing and trading history of the British people."

Mrs. Magdalena Wagner, 54, died Nov. 4, 1926. She was born in St. Clair Township. Besides her husband she is survived by three daughters and two sons, Mrs. William Zellman, Mrs. Ray Stanbury of St. Louis, and Mrs. Charles P. Werle, Belleville, and Frank J. Wagner, Belleville, and Edward Wagner, St. Louis. The funeral will be tomorrow afternoon at Walnut Hill Cemetery.

SMITH ELECTED BY 80,000; ILLINOIS WETS LEAD 2 TO 1
Late Returns From Remote Counties Cut Down Majority for Modification.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Election of Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee, to the United States Senate by a plurality of approximately 80,000 votes is indicated by virtually complete returns from Tuesday's election.
Late returns from downstate continue to cut down the margin of the plurality in favor of modification of the Volstead act, as registered in the advisory public policy referendum, returns from 4555 precincts out of 6229, including Cook County complete, showing 624,484 for modification, against 243,715 opposed.
Thirty-seven of 100 downstate counties returned majorities against modification, on the face of incomplete returns. These include Bond, Carroll, Cole, Cass, Green, Hardin, Marion, McLean, Perry, Pike and Johnson.
Smith issued his first formal statement on the results. It came by special delivery to the newspapers and said, in full: "I am deeply grateful to the people of Illinois.

On the face of incomplete returns the Association Opposed to Prohibition claimed a wet majority for the first time in many years, although the dry majority appeared to be continued in the State Senate. Present indications for the lower house, the association said, show: Wets, 83; dries, 67; unclassified, 3.

THE EARS OF THE ARMY

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

MIXED GRILL.
IT ISN'T that the car is any smaller, after marriage, but the ARGUMENT takes up so much room!

The honeymoon has "set," when a woman grows careless about running the ribbons through her frilly things and forgets to sew the satin rosettes back on.

Overdone petting appears to be going out of fashion along with overstuffed furniture. But, as long as girls will accept a man's "half-fellow-pat-you-on-the-back" attitude, he will cheerfully continue to cut out all the frills and thrills, and leave all the passementerie off his love-making.

Not until he sees her in another man's arms, does a man realize how "cuddly" his wife might be.

Now and then a modern girl refuses to bear her husband's name. But, good gracious! A man's name is the least of all things a woman has to bear, when she marries him.

Flaming youth seems to have sputtered out like a defective candle. It takes more than swag and a lot of newspaper to kindle a fire that will dazzle the world.

No matter how much at home a bachelor may feel in the theater aisle, there is something about the very sight of a church aisle that makes him sort of NERVOUS.

Some women "earn" their widowhood by long devotion and patience; others have it suddenly thrust upon them—and still others hustle out and "achieve" it via the divorce court.

One difference between being engaged and being married is the difference between preceding a man haughtily down the aisle to the orchestra chairs, and following him meekly up the stairs to the first balcony.

THE ITALIAN DRESSER.

CHAPTER 70.

HARTLEY looked at Doris questioningly.

"You have heard what this man says," he turned a contemptuous glance upon Count Romeo. "Do you wish me to leave you alone with him, Doris?"

"No, no," she protested, looking pathetically bewildered and helpless in Mignon's peasant costume. "It's not true. I'm not married to him."

"I fear you will be soon," muttered Hartley.

"And yourself, my friend," insinuated the Count softly, "is not your own fiancée waiting impatiently for you in the theater and perhaps chafing at your delay?" Hartley glared at him.

"More roses, mademoiselle," Doris' dresser glided into the room, bearing a huge bouquet of crimson roses. She glanced indifferently at the two men. The flowers fell suddenly at her feet.

"Guiseppi!" she said quietly, addressing the Count.

He went white, then furiously red, and his pale cheeks flamed.

"I—'you've made a mistake!" He turned wildly to meet the astonished gaze of Doris and Hartley.

"I—I don't know this woman. Who is she?"

The woman picked up the fallen roses with an unconcerned gesture and began to arrange them in a vase. The Count started to splutter incoherently, but Hartley silenced him with a wave of his hand.

"You know, Count Romeo da Silva, madame?" he asked the woman. "Tell us."

She shrugged.

"I do not know Count Romeo da Silva—it is another of the many new names he has chosen. But I know Guiseppi, my husband."

"Your husband?" echoed Doris and Hartley simultaneously, and the former gasped. "But he—I—"

she broke off, flushing crimson.

The kindly eyes of the Italian woman grew wide and sad.

"Ah, it is you, now, that he covets? There have been many."

"Why not?" It is 14 years since he deserted me in Milan. We meet occasionally. It is not a wide world. Is that not so, Guiseppi?"

But the Count had gone, vanished as silently as he had come.

"Then he is not a titled nobleman?" asked Hartley.

The woman smiled.

"He was a peasant like myself."

Miss Discontent

By Lucy Lowell.

MISS DISCONTENT to the fore again.

I didn't turn the corner quickly enough—it's a habit we who know her have, to cross the street when we see her coming—and she caught me.

And I listened again to her woe-tale. It's always woe-tale, no luck, no square deal, nothing out of life but hard knocks. She always runs true to form, spilling her story of misfortune with a long face and then going on her way, still woe-tale but triumphant.

For one thing she never has anything to wear. She can't stand the season's styles, whatever they may be. They're just the things she doesn't like. Besides salespeople are so disagreeable that she just dreads shopping.

All of this in spite of the fact that she never fails to be well and fashionably dressed. And a saleswoman I know told me that Miss Discontent spent a half hour once selecting a pair of gloves.

Her parties never are a success. Someone monopolized the conversation, or her partner wasn't a good dancer, or the music wasn't right. Or something. There's always something.

And her friends! Always saying cutting things or slighting her or acting peculiarly. She's always just about resolved to drop every last one of them and find new acquaintances who are not too envious or ill-natured to appreciate her.

Of course the friends have their own story—one of a chip that always seems balanced on a certain well-groomed shoulder. But she won't admit that.

And it's her work that annoys her most of all. She's always the victim of favoritism—having tasks put off on her that someone else ought to do.

Or her employer is a heartless wretch who doesn't appreciate a girl's best efforts. Or she's decided there's no future for her on the job.

As I say, we who know her man- age, when possible, to duck around the corner when we see her coming.

The real tragedy is that there's more than one of her.

Oh, do you know her, too?

Tips for Home Dressmakers.

Panels are much in evidence in both day and evening dresses and these are applied in the most individual manner. The panel dropping free from the waistline continues to be favored.

There are now vestees that are reversible. Sometimes it is merely a matter of different colors, but often the two sides are of different fabrics. Those in plaid silk on one side and a plain crepe de chine on the other are very smart with their high crush collar and contrasting bow at the side.

The answer to that question (if question there be) as propounded by experts who watched the campaign from the inside, is that the candidate's wife and daughter proved, in some respects, better campaigners than the seasoned and redoubtable politician himself.

They were on the job constantly. Mrs. Hawes accompanied her husband on every speaking tour he made. At every meeting, large and small, in the populous and in the most remote precincts, she sat upon the platform. By her mere presence, without any perceptible aggression on her part, but by her manner of being willing to meet people more than halfway, due to her own individuality, personality, charm and talents of her own. The fact that her family is composed of women-folk and of the sort only too willing to remain in the background and shine publicly by reflected light, has had an effect, too. Yet they might shine by their own light.

Mrs. Hawes in her girlhood undertook a career which would be considered advanced today. Thirty years ago she went to Paris, where she remained a year studying art at the Julian Academy. To judge by her youthful appearance now, she must have been extremely young for such a venture.

As Miss Eppe's Osborne Robinson she came from her home in Virginia to pay a visit to the late Mrs. Lucas at Goodwood, which was one of those fine country estates maintained by a landed gentry in the old Southern manner out around Kinloch. It was here she met Harry Hawes, though she did not decide to marry him until she had taken a fling at another independent venture.

For some months she was on the staff of the old St. Louis Republic as an assistant society editor before she finally yielded to the charms and importunities of the then rising young lawyer and politician.

Miss Peyton Hawes, following her mother's independent bent, has prepared herself for a career. After graduating from Washington University, she went to the State University at Columbia, where she took the course in journalism, obtaining her B. J. degree.

The other daughter, Miss Eppe, a wide circle of friends among whom she is most popular, will smile at her being mentioned in this also-ran order—has not prepared herself for a public career in the accepted sense of that term, but she has inherited her father's social gifts and impulses to a marked degree. Already she is what is known as a great success in society, not only in St. Louis but in Washington.

Discussing some of the biographical data I have already given, Mrs. Hawes remarked: "I believe in every girl preparing herself for a career by which she may if she must, or even if she choose, be independent and earn money of her own. One cannot always dictate the course of others. I am most sympathetic with Peyton's choice to have a chance at journalism, some sort of literary or advertising work. I have not succeeded in influencing Peppe toward an independent career but I am pleased to believe she has talents by which she could earn her living if she cared to employ them. She is very good at designing costumes and plans and makes almost everything she wears, and at arranging artistic effects in the house. Already she has offers to enter interior decorating businesses."

These seemed rather odd and practical sentiments coming from the family of a man who has been notably an indulgent and able provider.

Not the least of the helpfulness of the family in the campaign has been in the home and here is where the younger daughter has shone. She was just going out to do the family marketing when I rang the bell at 64 Vandeventer place the day after the election. Gently she guided me to the right of the hallway. "Living quarters on this side, campaign offices on the other," she remarked, admonishing me to turn my eyes away from the wreck of the campaign had made of the library across the hall.

Where they already making plans for a new home in Washington, Mrs. Hawes was asked.

"We haven't even thought of it," she replied. "That is, nobody except Eppe. She is elated at the prospect. Without any obligations toward the perfunctory entertainments of official life in Washington she enjoys the cosmopolitan aspect of society there. But I, when I stop to think of it—already I feel a pang of homesickness for St. Louis which is the dearest place in the world to me. But we haven't any plans. Our whole existence for the past two years has been absorbed in the one idea, the one idea (meaning the new Senator) must not, if we could help it, be disappointed in the thing he had undertaken to accomplish. And we are still submerged in that idea."

What Wife and Daughter Did to Help Make Harry B. Hawes a U. S. Senator

MRS. HARRY B. HAWES

EPPE HAWES

By MARGUERITE MARTIN.

THE overwhelming victory of Harry B. Hawes out in the State, where his well-known position on prohibition was expected to meet opposition and where the feminine vote, a new force to be reckoned with, was an uncertain element to say the least—is still puzzling some people a little.

The answer to that question (if question there be) as propounded by experts who watched the campaign from the inside, is that the candidate's wife and daughter proved, in some respects, better campaigners than the seasoned and redoubtable politician himself.

They were on the job constantly. Mrs. Hawes accompanied her husband on every speaking tour he made. One cannot always dictate the course of others. I am most sympathetic with Peyton's

choice to have a chance at journalism, some sort of literary or advertising work. I have not succeeded in influencing Peppe toward an independent career but I am pleased to believe she has talents by which she could earn her living if she cared to employ them. She is very good at designing costumes and plans and makes almost everything she wears, and at arranging artistic effects in the house. Already she has offers to enter interior decorating businesses."

These seemed rather odd and practical sentiments coming from the family of a man who has been notably an indulgent and able provider.

Not the least of the helpfulness of the family in the campaign has been in the home and here is where the younger daughter has shone. She was just going out to do the family marketing when I rang the bell at 64 Vandeventer place the day after the election. Gently she guided me to the right of the hallway. "Living quarters on this side, campaign offices on the other," she remarked, admonishing me to turn my eyes away from the wreck of the campaign had made of the library across the hall.

Where they already making plans for a new home in Washington, Mrs. Hawes was asked.

"We haven't even thought of it," she replied. "That is, nobody except Eppe. She is elated at the prospect. Without any obligations toward the perfunctory entertainments of official life in Washington she enjoys the cosmopolitan aspect of society there. But I, when I stop to think of it—already I feel a pang of homesickness for St. Louis which is the dearest place in the world to me. But we haven't any plans. Our whole existence for the past two years has been absorbed in the one idea, the one idea (meaning the new Senator) must not, if we could help it, be disappointed in the thing he had undertaken to accomplish. And we are still submerged in that idea."

For some months she was on the staff of the old St. Louis Republic as an assistant society editor before she finally yielded to the charms and importunities of the then rising young lawyer and politician.

He tried to make something to eat, for she couldn't be with Nanny had to be near her.

By and by Danny where he could watch home. After what seemed like a very long time Nanny in an open light, out and disappeared down her private little path to the grass. She was going something to eat, for she was hungry. Danny hung around waiting for her to come. Then his curiosity could no longer. He wanted to see if it was big and inside of Nanny's home.

So he climbed up in the and with a hasty look at for somehow he felt puffed inside through the round hole in the bottom. He had used an old nest, once belonged to Brown Thrasher. She had made it and inside was a very nice room with a very nice bed. Danny hadn't seen Nanny for some time since Nanny had been to the shore. He stretched himself on that soft bed. "What a comfortable!" he said with a grin. "That house doesn't belong to you."

Danny. "I'm just keeping the one it does belong to. Just try it!"

Now that bed was so tempting that Danny kept on moving. He knew it ought to go if he didn't be caught there. He dozed, and then Danny Mouse fell fast asleep in the comfortable bed. How awakened by the sound of outside.

"There's nobody home," voice. "I know it, for I saw Nanny take root, and even false pretences, like the voice of Striped Chipmunk, just long—Cicero.

"If she has any foot there, I wonder if she seeds stored away. If home, it is a good chance to look."

You should have seen Meadow Mouse prick up when he heard that.

Danny hadn't seen such a comfortable home since leaving Green Meadows to go to the shore. He stretched himself on that soft bed. "My, that's comfortable!" he said with a sigh. Refurbishing the Fall
Wardrobe

By Hannah Wing.

THE Poirot twills, chambrays, flannels, serges and tricotines that make up the fall wardrobe may need some refurbishing if they are to do duty this year. Nothing freshens these woollen like washing, and if pre-shrunk they may be washed successfully if one takes the proper precautions. Always test the material before washing. Squeeze in sample or inconspicuous part of the garment in lukewarm water. Pat out the moisture with a towel. When almost dry, iron on the wrong side. Compare it with the unwashed material. If color or texture have not changed, it may be safely washed.

Rip the hem before first washing and be sure to choose a good drying day.

Select a pure mild soap flake with a coconut oil base, which will clean quickly in almost any suds. Strong soaps should never be used on delicate colors or fabrics.

Outline any spots on the garment with basing thread. Use enough soap flakes to make a plentiful suds. Apply top suds to soiled spots with the fingertips. Massage the suds into the spots gently.

Squeeze lukewarm suds (not over 100 degrees F.) through the material. By not rub or twist. The second side of same temperature (100 degrees F.). Rinse in at least two waters of the same temperature (100 degrees F.). Bluing is suggested for white woollens.

Quick drying is essential. Fold in towels protecting color by inserting towels between all folds. Pass through loose wringer or roll tightly, changing towels constantly, until dry enough to shape.

Hang dresses, etc., on padded coat hanger and pull to shape. When almost dry, shape carefully and press on wrong side with moderate iron. Plaids, etc., may be pressed on the right side when covered with a damp cloth. Press until the steam ceases to rise from the pressing cloth, but do not continue beyond that point.

Boiled rice may be served with meat, or it may be served with cheese sauce as a supper dish, or it may be served with cream or a little sweetened fruit as a dessert.

The Boy Who Didn't Lose His Illusions

One Day the Wings He Longed for Carried Him to the Undiscovered Country

By WINIFRED BLACK.

WINIFRED BLACK

I KEEP thinking about the little boy and how he cried, because he said he had brushed the wings off his shoulders when he went through the thicket.

The Little Boy was always trying to fly—oh, ever since he was old enough to walk.

Yes, even before that.

He used to sit out on the wide open porch in his little baby carriage and watch the swallows sweeping and circling about the house, and he would stretch out his chubby little arms and wave them frantically and bounce in his little carriage.

It was not difficult at all to see that he was trying his very best to imitate the sparrows.

But it was not until he went to the seashore and saw the seagulls that he really made a determined effort to fly.

He watched the seagulls all day long. Every once in a while he would stop at his play in the sand and spread out his chubby little arms and run as fast as he could. He always tried to make himself believe that he was really flying.

One day at home we found him in a dark corner of the library, standing very still, and when someone spoke to him he put his funny little fat finger on his funny little curly mouth and said: "Sh! I'm just going to fly."

He had a pair of little paper wings pinned to his sturdy little shoulders, and he had opened the library windows so wide that he could fly straight out and up into his favorite tree. He was very much disappointed in those paper wings. But he soon got over that.

Someone told him that he was such a good little boy that he was beginning to grow wings, and he thought it would be no time at all before they were big enough for practical use—those wings. The day we went on the picnic he thought he felt the wings sprouting under his little shirt.

He didn't say a word about it, but he was very happy all day—only, there was a hedge, and when he got to playing he ran through the hedge and looked into the long mirror—and there were no wings there after all. He cried and there were no wings there after all. He cried and there were no wings there after all. He cried and there were no wings there after all.

Dear little fellow. He did not have to wait very long for his wings. Yesterday, when I saw a pale little boy in the street, a poor little fellow with wistful eyes and something beaten and miserable about him—all at once I stopped grieving for the Little Boy who wanted so much to fly.

He is freer and happier where he is than he might have been if he had lived to grow up and see his illusions fade one by one.

I wonder if he ever thinks about the seagulls and the swallows where he is, and about those who sat with him on the wide porch and watched their wheeling flight.

THE RHYMING
OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

HOW often has the way been shown by all the great of Earth who fought their course, unaided, lone, to things of splendor, all worth. Along the ages rings their call, and all their words are kin: "The conquerors must, one and all, find forces from within. Not all Earth's pomp and pageantry can help them in their climb, nor all the loveliness they see from ancient halls of time, not all of power that remains from vanished priests and kings, not all the prayer from by-gone fancies can lift their eager wings. And now no friends with kindly hands, and loving hearts that yearn can guide them on to those fair lands where all their longings turn." So it has

NEW VANITY BRACELET

A new vanity bracelet for evening wear in place of the ordinary slave bangle has appeared in the drawing rooms of Mayfair. It is composed of four little flat, gold boxes, each about the size of a penny and attached to a Milanese gold chain. The boxes contain a supply of powder, rouge, and lip-stick, the fourth containing a powder puff and mirror. The new mode does away with necessity for a Dorothy bag and can be easily slipped on and off.

Correct Heating Requires Both

1. Regulation
2. Circulation

Scientists and heating engineers agree that the basic principles of correct home heating are Regulation and Circulation. You'll find both in Charter Oak Parlor Furnace No. 34. They explain the superiority of the Charter Oak.

Regulation means controlled heat—a steady, even, healthful temperature. Circulation means distributed heat—heat that warms your back and shoulders and doesn't scorch your face.

Both, incidentally, mean the sort of efficiency which saves fuel.

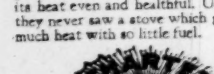

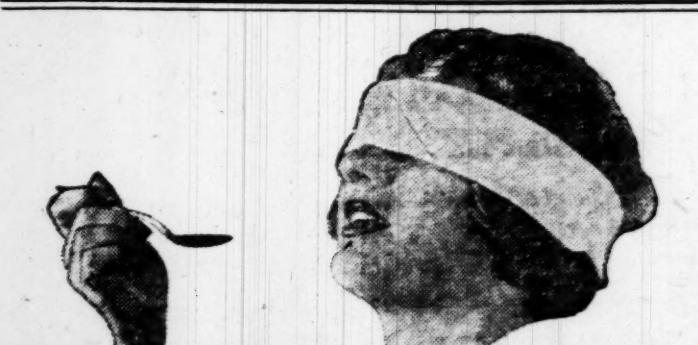

In the long run, you can't be satisfied with less. Avoid future regrets by seeing the Charter Oak now.

Prevent Circles Under Eyes

By Lucrezia Bori

THERE are several different causes for the dark circles that often appear under the eyes. Constitutional illness such as kidney trouble, lack of sleep, nervousness, a run-down condition and lack of sufficient air while sleeping are the leading generators of this beauty-destroying affliction.

In an effort to eliminate dark circles from under the eyes it is well to start with the simplest remedies; if relief does not come after a few weeks the family physician should be consulted to ascertain the root of the trouble.

Naturally each individual knows whether or not she is getting sufficient sleep, eight hours being the average length of time allotted to this health-giving function. There are conditions that require more than eight hours sleep, such as cases where the individual is of a highly nervous temperament. But these are the exceptions.

First determine whether or not you are getting eight hours of good, sound sleep. If your repose is disturbed by dreams, tossing and turning, you are not getting the proper rest, and this may easily be the cause of dark circles under the eyes. The remedy for restless sleeping lies in an analysis of habits and diet for the cause so that it may be corrected.

The second step toward the elimination of dark circles under the eyes is to make certain that plenty of fresh air comes into the sleeping room, and that the head doesn't become covered during the night. Many people retain this habit of slipping down under the covers from childhood days and it is one of the leading causes of dark circles under the eyes. The room may be filled with fresh air, but when the nose is covered up the poisons exuded from the body during the sleep are inhaled and so brought back into the system again with each breath.

If the nightly eight hours sleep, combined with the inhalation of fresh air, does not show a marked diminishing of the dark circles within a few weeks a physician should be consulted.

It is possible to conceal the dark circles during this time by cleverly tinting them with the face rouge. Just raise the usual rouge line so that it comes up under the eye. This with a light touch of powder will make the circles scarcely noticeable.

Before you put your pie in the oven, moisten the top with milk. If you prefer a rich brown glaze, moisten with an egg yolk mixed with a teaspoon of cold water.

FASCISTS TO PURGE PARTY RANKS; NEW POWER ASSUMED BY MUSSOLINI

Premier Takes Over Duties of Minister of Interior and Has Authority as War Commander.

DRASTIC MEASURES TO CHECK PLOTTERS

Death to Be Penalty for Those Who Injure King or Premier by Word or Deed.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 4.—Benito Mussolini today held seven of the Cabinet's 13 portfolios and was in exclusive personal control of a new created mechanism for the protection of the Fascist regime against all attacks, conspiracies and plots of its enemies.

As far as offenses against the Government or its leader are concerned, the country is virtually under martial law.

Mussolini possesses the power of a commander in chief of the army in time of war. New courts for trial of crimes against the regime and a special political police force intended to watch for plotters and abroad are controlled by the Fascist militia. Mussolini, doubly in command, as Minister of the Interior and commander of the militia.

Having added the ministry of the interior to his already numerous responsibilities, the Premier more deeply entrenched in his position than ever, called upon his cohorts to support him in carrying into effect two of his favorite maxims: "two eyes for one eye, and a tooth an entire set of teeth" and "the best way to defend is attack."

To Purge Party.

The grand council of the Fascist party—the supreme instrument of the regime—decided today to authorize Secretary-General Turati to carry out a systematic purging of the ranks of all members not giving absolute proof of their faithfulness to "the original Fascist spirit."

Moreover, the Fascist ranks will not be permitted to take matters into their own hands. The council has ordered an immediate cessation of the movement started at Padua and Parma to institute special secret political police at the expense of the royal family, the regime for special surveillance of local black shirts.

In addition to being commander in chief of the militia, Mussolini now is Premier, Foreign Minister, Minister of Marine, Minister of War, Minister of Air, Minister of Aviation and Minister of Labor.

Drastic Laws Approved.

The national council has approved all the drastic measures which the cabinet, sitting under the presidency of Mussolini, proposed. These will now go to the Chamber of Deputies, special convoked for next Tuesday.

They include death for attempts to injure or molest the Premier or members of the royal family, or to wound or kill, or to conspire against the regime; heavy penalties for direct or indirect opposition to the activities of anti-Fascist groups at home or abroad and suspension of licenses of all anti-Fascist newspapers and periodicals.

Only the establishment of a retrospective death penalty for those responsible for previous attempts against the life of Mussolini failed of enactment by the grand council. It is understood that Minister of Justice Rocco insisted that approval would be at variance with the traditions of Italy.

The case of each Italian now abroad will be examined to decide whether to confirm the passport by new holds or to withdraw it. In the latter event, the holder will be forced to return to Italy or suffer heavy penalties.

One of the most important aspects of the purification of the Fascist ranks is the restriction of membership to men actually engaged in productive occupations. This will be arranged by obligating each member of the party to be a member of some category of the Fascist syndical organization.

New Colonial Minister.

Luigi Federzoni, who relinquished the post of Minister of the Interior, was named by Mussolini as Minister of Colonies, succeeding Prince Lanza Di Scalea, resigned. Eight undersecretaries also transferred their resignations. Those accepted and new men appointed to take their places.

The appointment of Federzoni as Colonial Minister.
